PRAGYAN AVOIDS WIDE CRATER ON MOON

Chandrayaan-3's rover Pragyan avoided a wide crater on its path in the lunar surface, and a new path has been assigned to it. Earlier the rover traversed a 10-cm-deep ditch, but it was able to come out. On Sunday, the rover was given a reroute just short of three metres of the wide crater. Had Pragyan failed to detect the fairly deep crater and entered, it would have been difficult for it to come out, compromising the Moon mission, ISRO said | P5

RELEASE 5K CUSECS TO TN, CAUVERY PANEL TELLS K'TAKA

State to consult legal team as CWMA meets today; SC to hear the matter on September 1

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Cauvery Water Regulation Committee (CWRC) on Monday directed Karnataka to release 5,000 cusecs of Cauvery water per day to Tamil Nadu for the next 15 days.

The direction came after the CWRC heard contentions from both sides, which included TN's plea to direct Karnataka to release 24,000 cusecs of water for 10 days from August 29 as immediate relief to save the standing Kuruvai crops in its delta districts. However, Karnataka objected to even releasing 5,000 cusecs of water to TN as directed by CWRC, and a final decision on the release of water will be taken by the Cauvery Water Management Authority (CWMA) on Tuesday wherein TN has decided to reiterate its demand for 24,000 cusecs over the next 10 days from August 29.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, after the CWRC direction, clarified that before taking any decision he will discuss the matter with Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar, who holds the water resources portfolio, and consult the legal team and irrigation officials.

He said that in a normal year 86 thousand million cubic feet (tmcft) of water should have been released to TN by August 31. But so far, 30 tmcft of water has been released. "The TN government has appealed for release of 24,000 cusecs of water before the committee and we have explained to them about the deficit in rain and the situation in Karnataka. Since there is no distress formula in this regard, we will consult our legal team and irrigation officials and take a final call," he said.

Official sources said Karnataka strongly objected to TN's request stating that the monsoon period was over and that the state (Karnataka) received deficit rain this year. They said Karnataka required water for irrigation and drinking purposes for the rest of the year. Hence, the quantum of water requested by TN cannot be released.

However, TN officials said they did not ask for anything in excess of the quantum specified by the SC and that it just wanted Karnataka to honour the court verdict. They referred to the storage levels in Karnataka reservoirs.

A three-judge SC bench is scheduled to hear TN's plea on September 1 after analysing technical reports. P4

Children get on Reliance board

SACHIN KUMAR @ Mumbai

HISTORY repeats at Reliance Industries after 45 years. In 1977, Dhirubhai Ambani named his son Mukesh to the board of the company. Following in his father's footsteps, Mukesh on Monday inducted his three children — Isha, Akash and Anant — to the board.

Addressing shareholders at the company's annual meet, Mukesh, chairman of Reliance Industries, said he will continue to lead the company for five more years. His wife Nita will step down from the board but continue in her role as the chairperson of Reliance Foundation, he added.

"I can proudly say that they have earned their stripes through dedication, commitment, and hard work," he said about his children. "Teaming up with the other directors, they will work as one single team to provide leadership to the Reliance Group as a whole and guide the growth of all our diverse businesses with a holistic vision," he added.

The Ambani children have been closely involved in the company operations and are managing key businesses over the last few years, including retail, digital services and energy and materials.

Akash, the chairman of Reliance Jio Infocomm-the telecom arm of Reliance, was part of a team that brokered a $5.7 billion investment in 2020 by Facebook, now Meta, in Jio Platforms. Isha is leading the expansion of Reliance Retail into new categories and geographies, and is already a director on the board of the retail unit, Reliance Retail Ventures.

Anant is a director at Reliance's new energy business, retail unit as well as Jio platforms oil and chemical units. Their appointment will take effect after shareholder approval. "I shall groom and empower all the Next-Gen leaders at Reliance and prepare them for the challenges and opportunities of the future. I shall especially mentor Akash, Isha, and Anant so that they can provide collective leadership and dependably take Reliance to greater heights of growth and value in the decades ahead," he said.

Ambani first spoke of a succession plan in 2021 and had said his children will find prominent roles in the empire.

Haryana buys peace, lets symbolic yatra at Nuh

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

AMID Vishwa Hindu Parishad's belligerence, the Haryana government on Monday bought peace by facilitating a symbolic shobha yatra at Nuh that was wracked by communal riots on July 31 last.

The administration allowed about 60 people, including 15 seers and a few leaders of right-wing groups, to offer prayers and jalabhishek (pouring water on the Shivling) at a Shiv temple in the Nalhar area of Nuh.

Mahamandaleshwar Swami Dharm Dev and Swami Parmanand were among those allowed to visit the temple. After prayers at Nalhar, the group of 60, accompanied by some locals, went to the Jhir temple at Firozpur Jhirka.

Nuh district turned into a fortress following a call given by the Sarv Jatiya Hindu Mahapanchayat to take out the shobha yatra to mark the last Monday of the holy month of Shravan. A few right-wing leaders were placed under house arrest in Gurugram.

Also, several Hindu leaders and workers were put on notice not to participate in the yatra.

The police had set up five major checkpoints from the Delhi-Gurugram border till Nuh.

In tech city, no online option to give ward inputs

Govt seeks submissions in writing; till now, receives only 100 suggestions from citizens

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

BENGALUREANS have given a thumbs down to the government's initiative to seek suggestions and inputs on the delimitation draft to increase the number of wards in Bengaluru from 198 to 225. This is because the citizens did not have the option of expressing their opinions online, but had to visit Vikas Soudha personally to submit their feedback.

Officials at the Additional Chief Secretary's office at the Urban Development Department said that so far, only 100 responses have been received. They are yet to assess how many are suggestions, complaints and letters of appreciation.

The state government had released the draft of delimitation of wards on August 18 and had given 15 days from the date of announcement of the draft to give suggestions. The draft had said that all submissions should be given in writing to the ACS, UDD, at Room Number 436 in Vikas Soudha.

Citizens and experts said that in this era of digital communication and Bengaluru being the tech hub of the country, the state government sought the feedback in writing, instead of going digital.

"Today, everything is online from paying bills to posting grievances on social media platforms. But the government is still using the age-old method, which shows that they are not interested. The exercise of seeking suggestions has been done just to follow the rule book. Citizens do not have the time to go to Vikas Soudha, wait for the visiting hours to enter the government premises, meet the official when he is available and then submit the response. Everyone cannot access Vikas Soudha, like a Bescom or a revenue office to pay bills," said an agitated Narendra M, a resident of Thanisandra.

A senior Congress leader said the BJP government too had taken a similar route when it had sought suggestions on the draft to divide the number of wards from 198 to 243. "The Congress government cannot be criticised. Also, it is easier to verify and document submissions made offline at a government office," he tried to justify.

He, however, could not explain how the government would go paperless if it continues to seek letters.

Vikram Rai, Secretary, Bengaluru Apartment Federation, said, "When the state government was seeking suggestions for Brand Bengaluru, they had opened all platforms of communication, including social media. Suggestions were taken online, including WhatsApp. The same channel of seeking feedback could have been used in this case too."

Rupesh L, a resident of Jakkur, said the government is boasting of receiving over 70,000 suggestions on Brand Bengaluru. That is because they used all platforms of communication. But even this seemingly big number is less. The number of responses was less as there were server issues. But on denotification draft, it is very less. This shows that the government is not technologically advanced, as claimed while dealing with Brand Bengaluru responses. There is also no coordination to share expertise."

UDD ACS Rakesh Singh said there is still time and people can give their suggestions.

Many hiccups still remain over Sat Town Ring Road project

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

EVEN though the state wildlife board, chaired by Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, has given approval for the construction of an elevated corridor through the Bannerghatta National Park (BNP), Public Works Department (PWD) officials said it will take at least three years for the Satellite Town Ring Road (STRR) project to be completed.

The officials said the delay in construction of STRR and the elevated corridor of the BNP will only escalate the project cost by a minimum of 10-15% annually, leaving aside the land acquisition cost. Officials are also concerned that the project will get further delayed due to financial constraints. "It is also likely that this could see the same fate as the Peripheral Ring Road (PRR), where a partial stretch has been completed -- called NICE Road -- and the rest is stuck in red tapism and land acquisition," said a senior PWD official.

As per PWD records, the project was first conceptualised in 2017 and work on the drawing board started in 2018. Work on the ground started in 2020 and, so far, only 60 km has been completed.

"So far, work between Dobbaspet and Hoskote and from there to the Tamil Nadu side has been completed under the Greenfield project. Work on the rest is yet to be tendered. The detailed project report has been prepared. With every passing year, the project cost is escalating. The National Highways Authority of India (NHAI) has been assigned the project," said Principal Secretary, PWD, S Selvakumar.

He said if all goes well, then the project can be completed in three years and the elevated corridor work in eight months. He added that any civil project usually takes takes 18 months from tendering for execution and completion.

However, as per procedure, the elevated corridor proposal will now be tabled at the National Wildlife Board for scrutiny and approval. Dates and agenda of the next meeting is yet to be scheduled.

Conservationists and activists are pinning all hopes on this meeting for the project to be shelved as it will hamper the prime elephant corridor connecting Karnataka and Tamil Nadu.

A conservationist said, "Even the Supreme Court has taken note of the shrinking elephant corridors and the rising man-elephant conflict. Construction of an elevated corridor will only make matters worse in these states where conflicts are on the rise. We are planning to approach the courts to get the project stayed."

Urban activists also noted that the delay from the government in development of five satellite townships and PRR has impacted the development of Bengaluru. Because of this, the last remaining lung spaces, including a national park, is facing threats.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

DEPUTY Chief Minister DK Shivakumar on Monday said the condition of Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) chief engineer Shivakumar is critical. The Palike official and eight staffers were injured in a fire outbreak at the BBMP quality control laboratory on August 11.

Speaking to reporters later, Shivakumar said, "The BBMP chief engineer is on ventilator support. The doctors are giving him good treatment. I pray for his speedy recovery."

The condition of Jyoti has improved a little, he said. On the other injured who are under treatment at Victoria Hospital, the minister said the condition of Vijayamala and Srinivas is stable and they are in intensive care unit. Manoj, Siraj, Sridhar and Santosh Kumar have been shifted to the ward.

To a query on the status of the investigation into the fire, he said, "Let the probe report come. Let the police and BBMP officials complete the investigation; then I will speak."

ULLAL LAKE BECOMES A DEATH TRAP FOR FISH

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THOUSANDS of dead fish dot the severely depleted Ullal Lake, spreading stench all around and leaving morning workers fuming. Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) officials said the mass fish kill was due to deficit rainfall and water not being pumped to Ullal Lake from Mallathahalli Lake due to development works resulting in depletion of dissolved oxygen.

This apart, pollution from surrounding areas is also a contributing factor, said D S Gowda, president, Vishweshwaraiah Layout Welfare Association. BBMP Chief Engineer (Lakes Division) Vijaykumar Haridas said, "On Sunday, we cleared dead fish from lakes and disposed them. We will test samples to know the exact cause of death."

Spoken English course for Islamic scholars to connect with urban youth

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

ISLAMIC Information Center (IIC), a non-governmental organisation, has launched a six-month spoken English course for Islamic scholars to help them prevent misguided and frustrated youth from the community in urban areas from taking to extremism.

Zuhed Khan, president of IIC, said without the knowledge of English, many Islamic scholars are unable to answer questions on religious matters raised by the youth from the community living in cities and towns. Hence, the course has been designed to help them.

"Several international extremist organisations are misguiding the youth from the community in the name of religion through social media platforms. They target educated youth and attempts are being made to brainwash them. As scholars are the ones who take religion, literature and culture to the people, it is important that they know the language better to ensure that they preach the right knowledge. The idea is to prevent the youth from the community from falling prey to extremist organisations. The scholars will be taught to speak English fluently. Twenty-five scholars attended classes last Friday," Khan said.

Fifty scholars have enrolled for the course. Scholars from Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh have evinced interest in the course, he said.

The course is being offered to scholars from madrasas and masjids at DJ Halli, Shivajinagar and other areas in the city. Apart from them, merchants and businessmen from the community are also being encouraged to seek admission. IIC is ready to offer the course online if the number of scholars and others seeking admission goes up, he said.

Abdul Raheem, who teaches Arabic to children at Masjid-E-Ghani at DJ Halli, said, "I have been teaching Arabic for four years and wanted to learn English. This course will help me reach Islamic literature and culture to children and clear their doubts over religious matters."

PETER VIDAL

29TH August : Both the Sun and Moon are in strong positions. Let me tell you what that means. It's a perfect moment for taking enthusiastic, spontaneous, adventurous decisions, based on a belief that the future has to be better than the present. People who rely on vague intuitions and dreams to get their information might just be on the right track for once.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The general character of the day is somewhat reflective. Your first reaction might be to say whatever you want as soon as the words come into your mind, but you will distinguish yourself from the common herd by thinking first and speaking later. If you're hoping to get your own way you may therefore have to bide your time.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Do yourself a big favour and accept all intriguing social invitations. This is one of those times when any odd meeting is likely to change your life. The trouble is you don't know how, or when, this will happen, so keep an eye open for those odd significant encounters.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You may consider exactly which of your long-term ambitions are worth pursuing and which are not. If you're contemplating some major initiative at work, especially something a little out of the ordinary, then you're rapidly approaching your last chance. Next time round circumstances will be slightly different.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
You may be very anxious indeed to avoid any sort of fuss, but the choice may no longer be yours. The crucial factor still seems to be what you can and can't afford, so don't over-commit yourself. And then there's the little matter of a private fantasy, and whether you can pay to put it into practice.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Dreams of wealth and fortune may be in the air. It's doubtful whether you can take any personal action to boost your income, but it is open to you to ask for help and seek all the expert advice you require. The most effective assistance, by the way, could come from friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You may listen very carefully indeed to what other people are saying, not necessarily to the facts, but to the underlying meaning. Also, you may now give a higher priority to business or work than to fun - even your pleasures must be properly organised.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The general mood today is rather pleasant, and you may therefore have a nicely relaxed time. The only indications of burdensome responsibilities are connected with either children or creative activities. A spontaneous gesture could encourage a welcome response from friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
A number of planets lurking in private regions of your chart indicate that your motivations are deep and intense. You may therefore be very averse to any attempt by authority to control your behaviour. But you, for your part, have to exercise proper control over your own affairs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The progressive improvements in one particular relationship have come about because you are finally paying attention to all those little things. At work, you can decide whether you want to give up altogether or get things back on track. Perhaps a pause for thought would be helpful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
The poetry is coming out of your soul, so if you have feelings to declare, now is the time. Also, if you're attending any interviews or important meetings, you should concentrate on creating the right image. Appearances are not everything of course, but they do count.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Your romantic hopes can be best pursued by spending a little money, and potential targets should respond well to tokens of your love. The general rule will be the more extravagant the better. After all, if you want someone to know how you feel about them, there's little point in holding back!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
According to an old and thoroughly enigmatic saying, 'a lawful kiss is never worth a stolen one'. What you need in your love-life now is a touch of mystery - and a dash of spice. The people who come into your life could arouse whole new areas of your imagination.

Vigilante asks woman to remove burqa

Accused youth arrested: he had questioned woman for going with man from another faith

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru:

EAST division's CEN police arrested a 22-year-old medical college dropout for allegedly harassing a Muslim woman and asking her to remove her burqa, after she was seen on a bike with a man said to be from a different religion.

The accused waylaid the bike on which the man and woman were travelling, in Govindapura area on August 24. He questioned her for roaming around with a man from a different faith.

The accused, identified as Mohammed Zakeer, a resident of Raheem Nagar in Bangarpet, Kolar Gold Fields (KGF), was pursuing medicine at a medical college in Kyrgyzstan and had dropped out of the course. He was visiting his sister's house in Govindapura on that day.

A video of the incident had gone viral. Zakeer started harassing the woman and publicly shaming her, and some people from the watching crowd supported him. However, none of them abused or attacked the woman's friend. When she started walking away, Zakeer and some others followed her.

The woman and her friend are colleagues, and the latter was dropping her back to a parking lot in Govindapura, where she had parked her scooter, police said. "The accused is not known to the victim. The woman filed a complaint on Saturday and the accused was swiftly arrested. He was remanded in judicial custody," said DCP (East) Bheemashankar S Guled.

The video was posted by a user @BefittingFacts. It was shared on Friday, a day after the incident, tagging Bengaluru City Police's X handle.

Reacting to the video, the DCP said it was not clear who filmed the video and posted it on social media. "The case is still under investigation. Whoever filmed it or posted it on social media is also in trouble," the DCP added.

HC acquits police officer in graft case

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court acquitted the then Police Inspector of Mahalakshmi Layout, B Ramakrishna, in a corruption case registered by the Lokayukta police as the prosecution failed to prove the disproportionate assets against the accused.

Justice K Natarajan passed the order while allowing the appeal filed by Ramakrishna questioning the order dated February 18, 2019, passed by the sessions court sentencing him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for four years and to pay a fine of Rs 30 lakh for the offences punishable under the provisions of the Prevention of Corruption Act.

Setting aside the judgment of the sessions court, the HC said, the income of the appellant would be Rs 31.35 lakh and his assets would be Rs 20.44 lakh. Since the income exceeds the assets, hence there are no disproportionate assets. Also, the accused is exonerated from the charges in the departmental enquiry, and therefore, the accused cannot be convicted the court noted.

DANGEROUS OBSESSION

Driver forces minor girl to accept proposal, stabs & kidnaps her

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru:

A 16-year-old Ist PU student was stabbed and kidnapped by a spurned lover, right in front of her college gate in Ramanagara Town Police station limits on Monday morning 9.15 am. The accused was waiting for the girl near her college, and tried to push her inside an SUV. When she opposed, he stabbed her hand and shoulder, and kidnapped her.

Onlookers, who tried to stop the SUV, informed the police of the incident, when the accused managed to escape. The police later found out that the victim was admitted to a private hospital in Ramanagara. As the victim was bleeding profusely, the accused admitted her to a private hospital at Rayaradoddi, Jeegenahalli, on the Bengaluru-Mysuru Road. The police rushed to the hospital and took the accused, who was nearby, into custody. The victim is out of danger but in the ICU ward, where she is being treated.

The accused has been identified as DN Chethan, 28, of Dalimba village in Kanakapura taluk. The victim who is also from the same village is presently residing in Rayaradoddi, Ramanagara, and was a student of the Government Women's PU College in Ramanagara.

Chethan was allegedly forcing the victim into a relationship which she kept opposing.

He reportedly had a fight with the victim's parents and relatives two months ago. The girl was staying with her relatives in Rayaradoddi. The accused reportedly wanted to marry her, and forced her to accept his proposal. When she refused he kidnapped her in an SUV. The accused, who worked as a car driver in an IT company in Bengaluru, had brought the company's SUV to kidnap her.

"During the initial investigation, we checked the CCTV footage to get the SUV's registration number, and contacted the owner. We then tracked the vehicle's movements, which was found to be parked near the hospital where the victim was admitted. The vehicle has also been recovered," said an official.

Opposition BJP said that the Siddaramaiah government that completed 100 days in office has failed on all fronts and development works have been stopped. Former CM and senior BJP leader Basavaraj Bommai said even though the farmers are in the grip of drought, the government has not done anything to help them, and farmers' suicides have started again. There are all signs that agricultural production will suffer, he said

Slams TN for extending cultivation area from 1.8L ha to over 3L ha

The water level at KRS dam stood at 101.83ft as against the maximum 124ft on Monday

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Monday directed Irrigation Department officials to release water for standing crops in the Cauvery and Kabini achukat area on priority.

Speaking before the Cauvery Water Regulation Committee (CWRC) passed an order asking Karnataka to release 5,000 cusecs of water to Tamil Nadu for the next 15 days, he expressed displeasure over the state irrigation consultative committee decision to release water on on-and-off system for 15 days to KRS and Kabini achukat farmers. In the absence of a distress formula to determine the quantum of Cauvery water to be released to Tamil Nadu, Irrigation Department officials should have given water to kharif crops, instead of adopting the on-and-off system. "Who told you to adopt the on-and-off system? Why should you presume there is a problem," he asked Irrigation Department Chief Engineer Venkatesh.

Siddaramaiah said Tamil Nadu has increased its kuruvai crop cultivation area from 1.8 lakh hectares to over 3 lakh hectares and the Mettur reservoir has 63 tmcft of water.

Though the Cauvery tribunal has directed the state to release 177 tmcft of water in a normal year, Karnataka has let out 30 tmcft as against demand for 83 tmcft, he said. Reiterating that the construction of Mekedatu balancing reservoir with a capacity of 63 tmcft is the only solution, he regretted Tamil Nadu's opposition to the reservoir, which would help in distress years and also meet drinking water needs. "We can't give 83 tmcft of water as it will empty out reservoirs and cause problems for drinking water," he added. "The Supreme Court should formulate a strict distress formula as the water level at the KRS Dam stands at 101.83 ft as against the maximum of 124.8 ft. Farmers in the Cauvery basin should be protected like those in the delta region," he added. He advised Irrigation Department officials to work with allied departments and to educate farmers on the judicious use of water.

District Minister HC Mahadevappa told Chief Engineer Venkatesh to go by the decision of the Irrigation Consultative Committee and to ensure that water is released to save the only crop in Kabini and KRS achukat areas. Venkatesh said they can release water for crops till December if they get 15-20 tmcft of water and if it rains over the next couple of weeks.

Siddaramaiah earlier ruled out cloud seeding to overcome monsoon shortage. He said it has never been successful.

Will consult legal team, says CM

SIDDARAMAIAH asserted, "Whether the CWRC direction is advantageous or disadvantageous to the state, whether we have water or not (in the reservoirs), we have to examine all these. Karnataka has no water and we have to save our crops and safeguard the interests of farmers as well as drinking water needs of the people. After examining all these factors, we will take a decision ... I will consult the legal team immediately."

Karnataka released 10,000 cusecs of water following the CWMA direction on August 11. But TN filed an application in the SC demanding 24,000 cusecs, questioning the CWMA's direction.

On August 11, the TN team staged a walkout during the CWMA meeting in protest against the authority's decision to reduce the quantum of water to be released to 10,000 cusecs from 15,000 cusecs as ordered by the CWRC earlier. Later, the TN government moved the SC seeking its direction to Karnataka to release 24,000 cusecs of water. The apex court posted the matter for next hearing on September 1 and directed the CWMA to submit a report on water released, storage levels in Karnataka reservoirs, etc.

Karnataka filed its affidavit against TN's application before the SC for release of 24,000 cusecs of water per day for 10 days on August 24, stating that it was based on an assumption that this year normal rain was received in Karnataka.

On August 25, the Supreme Court refused to pass an order stating that it did not possess the expertise and sought a report from the authorities concerned with technical expertise before September 1. Now, with the CWRC's direction to Karnataka to release 5,000 cusecs of water and CWMA's meeting on Tuesday, all eyes are on the three-judge SC bench that sits on September 1.

Will not comment until final verdict comes: DKS

MYSURU: Reacting to the CWRC's latest directive, DyCM DK Shivak-umar, who also holds the water resrources portfolio, said that the State Government will make an appeal in this regard and won't comment until the final verdict comes. "We will make an appeal and have already conveyed the situation here. Today, the technical meeting has happened and another round of meeting will be held tomorrow. I won't comm-ent until the final verdict in this regard comes. We will protect the interest of our farmers," he said.

Feels like summer: Sparse rain ups temp

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

WITH rain playing truant across the state, Karnataka is facing the heat, quite literally, as the temperature has increased by 2-4 degrees Celsius at a majority of areas.

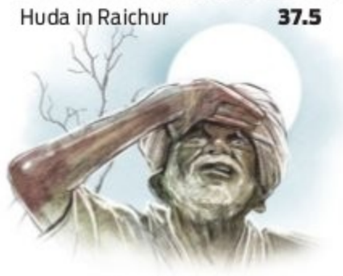
Mandya district has seen the sharpest rise as the mercury has jumped nearly 6 degrees Celsius as against the normal for August, according to the India Meteorological Department (IMD) data. At the same time, the minimum temperature during night has dipped in some places.

According to data from the Karnataka State Natural Disaster Management Centre (KSNDMC), the number of districts facing rain deficit has increased from 14 in July-end to 20 districts as on Monday. These districts have recorded the deficit, ranging from 20-45 per cent. Since the beginning of monsoon on June 1, the state should have received 666 mm of rainfall, but it has recorded only 485 mm. The increase in temperature is because of this prolonged dry patch.

Top 5 hoblis recorded highest temperature on August 28

(IN DEGREES CELSIUS)

Ainapur in Kalaburagi	39.1
Walkamdini in Raichur	37.8
Hire Katankal in Raichur	37.8
Hadganhal in Raichur	37.7
Huda in Raichur	37.5



The IMD weather report states that Mandya recorded the maximum temperature of 34.6 degrees Celsius on Sunday, which was 6 degrees Celsius departure from the normal. Gadag reported 33 degrees Celsius which is 4 degrees Celsius higher than the norm. Bengaluru, Kalaburagi, Mangaluru, Bidar and Chitradurga districts are experiencing a difference of 3 degrees Celsius. There is a variation in minimum temperature too. Vijayapura recorded 3 degrees Celsius lesser than normal and Belagavi one degree Celsius.

Prof MB Rajegowda, former registrar, University of Agricultural Sciences, said with no rain, the evaporation of moisture from the soil has increased, making it dry. This has led to an increase in temperature. "These are signs of global warming. If there is a systematic rain pattern, warming is lesser. There has been an increase in temperatures departing from the normal. At present, we are in the negative half of the cycle, which means the state received good rain for the last six years and it may be bad for the next six years. The increase in temperature and dry soil are hampering crop growth too," he added.

KSNDMC former director Srinivas Reddy said, quite ominously, that there are no signs or weather systems favourable for rain (except in isolated areas). No system has formed over the Bay of Bengal or Indian Ocean. This is likely to continue till September 7. With deficit rain and temperature rising, the evaporation from water bodies has increased which is also worrying. We are in monsoon and it feels like summer. With this weather extremity, there are chances of extreme cold during winter, he hypothesised,

JDS to hold rally in B'luru on Sept 10

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

FORMER Prime Minister and JDS supremo HD Deve Gowda on Monday said that a convention of party workers will be held in Bengaluru's Palace Grounds on September 10. Speaking to reporters here, Gowda reiterated that none of the 19 JDS MLAs will leave the party. This comes amid reports of the Congress in Karnataka trying to "poach" legislators and leaders of Opposition BJP and JDS.

Gowda said close to 20,000 JDS workers from across Karnataka will take part in the rally. Gowda appealed to the workers not to let him down as he has been working tirelessly to organise the party even at the age of 91. "Many such rallies will be organised... I have resolved to save our regional party amidst the national parties — Congress and BJP," he added. Gowda also hinted at contesting the 2024 LS polls. He clarified that the JDS will not tie up with any party.

Core committee

A core committee has been formed under the chairmanship of former minister and Chamundeshwari MLA GT Devegowda that will go on a statewide tour from September 1. The committee will submit a report to the party leadership following which a decision will be taken on the candidates for the LS polls, Gowda said, adding that his son and former CM HD Kumaraswamy will lead the party in the polls.

There is a discussion about delimitation of Lok Sabha constituencies. We were not bothered. We are preparing for local body elections, including BBMP, under the chairmanship of GT Devegowda

HD Deve Gowda, former PM and JDS supremo

"There is a discussion about delimitation of Lok Sabha constituencies. We were not bothered. We are preparing for local body elections, including BBMP, under the chairmanship of GT Devegowda. No MLA will leave the party. All this is just speculation. If someone says that one of the leaders is quitting we will set it right. Don't spread such speculative news. Let this regional party survive," he told the media.

Gowda warned the ruling Congress to be wary of HD Kumaraswamy as he has documents to prove the scams committed by leaders of the Grand Old Party. "I am sitting at home and watching everything. I know about the pen drive controversy. He (HDK) does not talk without any proof. I will speak about it in the coming days," the former PM said.

He also alleged that the State Government favours land mafia who have encroached 38,947 acres of land in Bengaluru.

He also took a dig at DyCM DK Shivakumar for the proposal to shift the medical college from the Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Science (RGUHS) campus at Ramanagara to Kanakapura. "I have no objection in establishing a separate university in Kanakapura... but it was first proposed to be constructed in Ramanagara," he added.

'Teaching Kannada must in madrasas'

ENS @ Bengaluru

MINISTER for Minorities Welfare and Housing Zameer Ahmed Khan directed officials to teach all subjects, including Science, Mathematics, Kannada and English in the madrasas. Kannada must be compulsorily taught in the madrasas, he said, while chairing the progress review meeting of the Department of Minorities Welfare at the Directorate of Minorities Welfare on Monday.

A statement from the minister's office said there are 1,265 madrasas registered with the Wakf Board and officials must take up teaching those subjects on a pilot basis to 5,000 children in 100 madrasas, and then prepare a detailed proposal to extend the same to all the madrasas across the state from the next year.

The minister gave instructions to hike the incentive of Rs 20 lakh to those minority students who study abroad under the scheme of the Directorate of Minorities to Rs 30 lakh and increase incentive given to the minority students who secure admission in recognised institutions including IIT, NIT from the current Rs 2 lakh to Rs 4 lakh, the statement added.

KPCC revamp likely in Sept to face LS polls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

AHEAD of the 2024 Lok Sabha elections, the Congress in Karnataka is all set to take a slew of measures to strengthen its base across the state. As part of it, Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) is expected to be reorganised in September. The party high command is likely to give more responsibility to those leaders who are not part of the Siddaramaiah Cabinet to ensure that they set aside more time towards party building activities.

The Congress government in Karnataka recently completed 100 days in office and is riding high with the implementation of the guarantee schemes. Now, it wants to take the success of the schemes to the people ahead of the General Elections. Several KPCC office-bearers are now MLAs and some even ministers, including district ministers. "Ministers will be over-burdened with additional party work as they are also holding various posts in the party. Also, we need people who can focus more on the party," a senior Congress leader told TNIE.

Another factor is that Karnataka, apart from the LS polls, will also witness elections to the BBMP and panchayats. "We need individuals who can focus solely on party-building activities. Ministers won't be able to do that," the leader added.

One of the KPCC working-presidents Saleem Ahmed said, "We are hoping that it (restructuring) will be done by the first week of September." Congress sources said that the KPCC is likely to continue having 5 working-presidents. Presently, three working-presidents Ramalinga Reddy, Eshwar Khandre and Satish Jarkiholi are ministers. This apart, MB Patil and Dr G Parameshwara head the KPCC campaigning and KPCC manifesto committees which are crucial for the party to win at least 20 seats in the Lok Sabha polls. KPCC president and DyCM DK Shivakumar, CM Siddaramaiah along with AICC President Mallikarjun Kharge, Congress Karnataka in-charge Randeep Surjewala will meet soon to finalise the candidates.

We need individuals who can focus solely on party-building activities. Ministers won't be able to do that

– Senior Congress leader

The top brass, however, has clarified that Shivakumar will remain as KPCC chief at least for the next one year.

Only court can order fresh probe: HM

SOWJANYA CASE

BR UDAYA KUMAR @ Hassan

AFTER the CBI has given a clean chit to the accused in the Sowjanya rape and murder case, only court can order a reinvestigation, Home Minister G Parameshwara said here on Monday. Parameshwara was visiting Shivananda Shivayogi Rajendra Swami at Kodimutt in Arasikere taluk with his family.

"What remains after a CBI probe? The question of the state government's stand does not arise," he told reporters. He said that those demanding a re-investigation can appeal to court. CM Siddaramaiah had, during his visit to Dakshina Kannada recently, said the government may reconsider the demand of those protesting over the issue. Members from progressive unions and leaders of political parties have alleged that the CBI failed to find the real accused, and the lone accused, Santosh Rao, was acquitted in June this year.

Dr D Veerendra Heggade, dharmadhikari of Sri Kshetra Dharmasthala, had recently written to the CM to come up with a solution as a section of society and political parties were targeting the holy place. Heggade had also written that Sri Kshetra would abide by any decision of the government.

In 2012, 17-year-old Sowjanya had allegedly been kidnapped, sexually assaulted and murdered on the outskirts of Dharmasthala, while returning home from college. The then government had referred the case to the CBI.

Asked about guarantee schemes hampering development, Parameshwara said they would have no impact.

On the BJP's allegations that the state government had diverted Special Component Plan and Tribal Sub Plan grants for the guarantee schemes, he said SC/STs also come under these schemes, and there is no harm in using SCP/TSP grants.

Fact-checking unit: Govt will not go against law, says Priyank

BENGALURU: Karnataka IT/BT Minister Priyank Kharge tried to allay concerns expressed by the Editors' Guild of India over the government's decision to set up a fact-checking unit to monitor social media posts. Speaking to media persons in Bengaluru, the minister said he will write to the Guild. "We are not the UP government, we are the Karnataka government and we will not do anything that is against the law," he said. The EGI had expressed concern over some aspects of the government's decision to set up a fact-checking unit to monitor 'fake news'. It urged governments to ensure that such units are independent of executive control, and that their scope and powers are specified so as not to trample upon press freedom. Stating there is a problem of misinformation and fake news, especially in the online space, the Guild stated that efforts to check such content have to be done by independent bodies that are not under the sole purview of the government, lest they become tools to clamp down on voices of dissent. It urged the Karnataka government to clearly specify the scope and powers of the proposed fact-checking unit, as well as the governing mechanism under which it will operate. ENS

Bengaluru Tech Summit from Nov 29 to Dec 1

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA is the most sought-after destination for global capability centres (GCC), with the presence of around 40% of GCCs in India, and it is ranked top in the country in terms of software exports, said IT/BT Minister Priyank Kharge on Monday.

Speaking at the Global Innovation Alliance (GIA) partners meeting, Priyank said that Karnataka's share of software exports is over 40% of the country's exports of $155 billion.

He said Bengaluru is the fourth largest technology cluster of the world and that Karnataka has the best skilled workforce in the world. "We need to be more resilient for the future and we need to ensure we are ready for the challenges for future innovations," he added.

The 26th Edition of the Bengaluru Tech Summit (BTS) will be held from November 29 to December 1, and the minister said GIA partner countries will have specific focus on each sector at BTS. Besides knowledge and idea exchange, the summit will also focus on innovation and investments. GIA partner countries will host 16 sessions and witness representations from Australia, France, Israel, Japan, Switzerland, and the Netherlands.

Priyank also said that they have created centres of excellence for Deeptech, IoT, Cybersecurity, AgriInnovation, Data Science & AI, Aerospace, among others. "Now we are coming up with COEs for Health science & medical devices, manufacturing, automobile tech, a gaming accelerator and also a circular Economy lab," he added.

This year BTS will also have a multi-track conference on IT and Electronics, deep tech, startups and Biotech, an international exhibition, the India-US Tech Conclave, B2B meetings, Unicorn felicitation, among others.

'28% GST on online gaming will create chaos'

Kharge also said that he has written to Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman on this issue (28% GST on online gaming), and has requested to relook as right now players are being lured away. "This leads to a lot of chaos," he said, stressing on the need to have a dialogue with both the gaming industry and players. He said many players are now losing money and they can't even be protected. "People are playing games on Chinese and Eastern European servers and losing money and we can't even protect them," he said. Following the GST Council's decision to levy a 28% GST on online gaming revenue, five gaming startups have had to either lay off or shut operations.

After Moon, ISRO's Aditya-L1 to study Sun

Spacecraft is a fully indigenous effort of the space agency

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

AFTER India scripted history by successfully launching the Chandrayaan-3 mission to the Moon's south pole on August 23, the next mission lined up within five days is Aditya-L1, the country's first mission to the Sun which will be launched at 11.50 am on September 2 from the Sriharikota spaceport.

The Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) on Monday said on platform X, "The launch of Aditya-L1, the first space-based Indian observatory to study the Sun, is scheduled for September 2, 2023, at 11:50 Hrs. IST from Sriharikota." The mission will be on ISRO's PSLV-C57 rocket.

The ambitious Aditya-L1 mission is designed to provide remote observations of the solar corona and in-situ observations of the solar wind at L1 (Sun-Earth Lagrange Point), which is about 1.5 million kilometre from the Earth. The spacecraft is a fully indigenous effort of ISRO.

According to scientists, the Lagrange Points -- named after Italian-French mathematician Josephy-Louis Lagrange -- are positioned in space where the gravitational forces of the Sun and the Earth produce enhanced regions of attraction and repulsion, which the spacecraft will use to its advantage to reduce fuel consumption and remain in position.

The mission to the Sun aims at observing the solar atmosphere, mainly the chromosphere and corona -- outermost layers of the Sun -- and conduct in-situ experiments to record the local environment at L1. Aditya-L1 will have seven payloads, which will record and provide crucial information to understand the problem of coronal heating, coronal mass ejection, pre-flare and flare activities and their characteristics, dynamics of space weather, propagation of particles and fields. Of the seven payloads, four are for remote sensing of the Sun, while three will carry out in-situ observation.

A satellite will be placed in the halo orbit around the L1 point which will have a major advantage of continuously viewing the Sun without any planets obstructing the view or causing eclipses, ISRO said in a statement. "This will provide a greater advantage of observing the solar activities and its effect on space weather in real-time," it said.

The satellite, developed by the UR Rao Satellite Centre, arrived at Sriharikota in Andhra Pradesh earlier this month.

The space agency has also invited registrations for the live viewing of the launch from the Launch View Gallery at Sriharikota. Interested individuals can register through https://lvg.shar.gov.in/VSCREGISTRATION/index.jsp

Close call for Pragyaan with 4-metre-diameter crater

Chandrayaan-3's Pragyaan rover had a close call with a 4-metre-diameter crater in the vicinity of the mission's landing site on Sunday. However, Pragyaan rerouted itself just in time to prevent it from entering the crater. It detected the crater just 3 metres short of it. Had the rover failed to detect it, and entered it, it would have been difficult for it to come out, compromising its operations. On Sunday, the rover traversed a 10-cm-deep ditch, but because of its track and wheels, it was able to come out. However, the crater appears to be much deeper than the ditch. ISRO on platform X said, "The rover came across a 4-metre diameter crater positioned 3 metre ahead of its location. The rover was commanded to retrace the path. It's now safely heading on a new path." It also released images of the lunar crater and detour of the rover, its path marked by the imprints on the lunar soil left behind by the rover's wheels and track, which have been recorded by the navigation camera on board. The rover's retraction was commanded by the ISRO team at Mission Operation Complex (MOX) situated in ISRO Telemetry, Tracking and Command Network (ISTRAC) in Bengaluru. The signals from the rover were sent to the Vikram lander, which in turn communicated them to ISTRAC, which commanded the evasive action by the rover to avoid the crater.

HOARDING LED TO DIP IN INDIAN MADE LIQUOR SALES, BUT REVENUE STILL UP

BALA CHAUHAN @ Bengaluru

THE state excise department has rubbished reports in a section of media regarding an alleged dip in sales of Indian Made Liquor (IML) post the Budget on July 7. On the contrary, the department collected Rs 13,515 crore in revenue between April 1 and August 27, 2023, as against Rs 11,887 crore during the period last year, marking a 13.70 per cent growth in revenue comparatively.

Chief Minister Siddaramaiah had announced a 20 per cent hike in AED (Additional Excise Duty) on all 18 slabs of IML, and 10 per cent hike in beer in the budget. He set the revenue target for state excise at Rs 36,000 crore for 2023-24, up from Rs 32,000 crore announced by former chief minister Basavaraj Bommai in February this year.

There was a shortfall in revenue soon after the Budget because of "hoarding" by the licencees, said informed sources.

"The excise licencees had hoarded extra IML in July because of the perceived increase in AED in the Budget, which led to a shortfall in sales in August," said official sources.

"Between July 7 and 19 (last date on which IML was sold at pre-Budget prices), excise licencees in the state had picked up additional 10 lakh case boxes (CBs) to avoid paying extra amount on IML post the increase in Maximum Retail Price (MRP). It's a normal practice before the Budget every year, especially when speculation is high on increase in AED. Because of additional stocks picked up in July, there was a shortfall of 3-4 lakh CBs in August," said an official who didn't wish to be named.

He added that between August 1 and 27 this year, the Karnataka State Beverages Corporation Limited (KSBCL) sold 42.25 lakh CBs to licencees through excise permits, in comparison to 45.16 lakh CBs during the corresponding period last year, marking a shortfall of 2.91 lakh CBs. "But now sales have picked up," said sources. One CB contains 8.64 litre IML.

Revised prices

The revised prices of IML in the state, including beer, came into effect from July 20 under the Karnataka Excise (Excise and Duties) (Amendment) Rules, 2023.

IML in Karnataka is priced and taxed according to its slab. There are 18 excise slabs, with the cheapest alcohol falling in the first slab and the most expensive IML in the 18th slab. Out of the 18, the second slab alone contributes over 55 per cent to excise revenue.

GRP arrest five in pilgrims charring case

JEYALAKSHMI RAMANUJAM
@ Madurai

THE Government Railway Police (GRP) on Monday arrested five people for culpable homicide in connection with the death of nine pilgrims in the IRCTC tourist coach fire in Madurai on Saturday.

The arrested were identified as tourist agency staffer J Deepak, cook Hardish Sharma, helpers Sath Prakash Rasdoki and Kashyap, and guide Narendra Kumar.

Speaking to TNIE on Monday, SP-GRP (Tiruchy) Senthil Kumar said, "One of the deceased, Harish Kumar alias Bapu Basin (61), had organised the tour through his firm Basin Travel Agency. He had brought inflammable materials such as gas cylinders, coal, a pump stove, and kerosene in violation of norms. Of the 64 who had come from UP, 55 are passengers and nine are Harish's aides. They had brought two cylinders with them and filled gas in Kanniyakumari district. Two of the deceased, cooks Ankul Kasyap (32) and Deepak Kashyap (20), were preparing tea early on Saturday when a leak in the gas tube sparked a fire that led to a cylinder explosion. The blaze soon spread to other parts of the coach. Seeing the fire, the five accused jumped out of the train and shouted for help. Since only one entrance of the coach was opened and the rest were locked, several got trapped in the train. Some of the victims, who initially escaped, went inside the coach again to retrieve their belongings and got caught in the fire."

All the five accused were remanded to custody till September 11 by Madurai JMM court on Monday. Goonda Act will be invoked on those who bring inflammable material on trains, the SP said.

TOP OF THE WORLDS, NEERAJ IS THE SPARK INDIAN SPORTS NEEDS

It was close to midnight, and millions were glued to the TV sets. It was not for cricket or European football. It was for one man—Neeraj Chopra—the Olympic and now world champion. The junior world champ is now the senior king. For a javelin thrower to attract such a hedonistically crazy following is rare in a country that eats, sleeps and breathes cricket. Perhaps Neeraj is that antidote that people in India have been waiting for. And he has not disappointed so far. What sets Neeraj apart from the rest is his consistency and the ease with which he throws the javelin to medal-winning distances. He will again lead India's charge at the Asian Games in September-October and the Olympics next year. He has won everything athletics can offer (Olympic, Worlds, Diamond League final title, senior and junior titles), yet the hunger for more is still alive in the 25-year-old athlete. His coach, Klaus Bartonietz, succinctly describes him: "It is not difficult to motivate him. He is already a motivated and focussed athlete." Amidst his stellar performances, we tend to ignore his bigger role in the growth of sport—inspiring a new generation of javelin throwers. For the first time, three Indians, including Neeraj, qualified for the final. Kishore Jena, competing against his idol Neeraj, performed his personal best and finished fifth, while D P Manu managed a sixth finish.

Indians scorched the track on the last two days, too. After a crushing bottom-half finish by Avinash Sable in the 3000m steeplechase, Parul Chaudhury emerged as one of India's finest in women's steeplechase, breaking the long-standing national record in the final and qualifying for the Paris Olympics. In 4x400m, four men—Muhammed Anas, Amoj Jacob, Ajmal Variyathodi, and Rajesh Ramesh—came out of the blue and threatened the world order with an Asian record on Saturday and a fifth finish in the final against leading countries like the USA. It was a balm on the sore early days when Sable and long jumper M Sreeshankar crashed out from qualifying events. Away from athletics, H S Prannoy secured his first bronze medal at the world championships after beating world No. 1 Viktor Axelsen, days after the U20 women's team won the world championships title in wrestling. Ahead of the Paris Olympics next year, this spark gives hope. However, to turn Paris into a success, one must not rest on the laurels but try to strive for more.

PURI TEMPLE ACCESS FOR PwDs A BOON

If everything goes as planned, the Shree Jagannath Temple in Puri will soon end the centuries-old problem of persons with disabilities (PwDs) facing barriers to enter the temple. The Archaeological Survey of India (ASI), which preserves the religious monument, has given its nod for constructing a ramp near the northern gate to enable entry of differently-abled devotees into the temple. The Shree Jagannath Temple Administration (SJTA) pitched the proposal at a recent meeting, and the ASI gave its go-ahead. In the past, attempts were made to provide barrier-free access to the temple, which draws millions of pilgrims from around the world. Following campaigns by disability activists, the temple administration in 2015 installed a steel ramp and placed wooden wheelchairs to help PwDs reach the Ananda Bazaar. However, that did not work out well. The main shrine remained out-of-bounds because wheelchairs were allowed only until the Lion's Gate. Beyond that, the differently-abled had to be physically carried inside. This was met with some reservations, for it posed risks to people with neurological injuries.

The matter went to the Orissa High Court last year after a petition invoking the Rights of Persons with Disabilities Act sought access to the shrine. The court instructed the managing committee of SJTA and its chief administrator to take a lawful decision within a month. Since the temple body took time, two contempt petitions were filed and the HC issued show cause notices as well. During this period, the Mukti Mandap, the highest seat of scholars of the Jagannath Temple, threw its weight behind providing access to PwDs. As things stand today, a ramp made of stone will soon allow wheelchairs carrying people with mobility and visual impairments directly into the temple's sanctum sanctorum, finally ensuring inclusivity in access. The move also comes as the Centre conducts an access audit of 14 popular shrines under the tourism ministry's PRASAD scheme. The Jagannath Temple is one of them.

The removal of barriers in Srimandir will not only come as a boon to thousands of devotees who were earlier deprived of darshan of the deities but also set an example for other ancient shrines in the country to follow. It will also be a glowing testament to inclusivity, the core philosophy of Jagannath culture.

QUICK TAKE

TALIBAN AND 'TALEEM'

A UN education envoy wants the International Criminal Court to prosecute Afghanistan's Taliban for denying education and jobs to girls and women. The Taliban insist they follow Islamic law, so lifting the ban is no pre-condition for recognising their government. The world, save issuing statements, appears disinclined to force an attitudinal change. This stand-off, now two years old, helps none, least of all, Afghan women. The Taliban are beginning to visit fellow Islamic countries seeking recognition. These countries back women's education and finance studies of hundreds of fleeing Afghan girls. They have the credentials to influence the Afghan regime to end gender discrimination.

India's Chandrayaan-3 Lunar Mission was a super success. India is on the moon. And over the moon as well. Celebrating this success, one of the defining images that sticks in my mind is that of the number of women scientists involved in the mission. More than 100 women played a stellar role in conceptualising, designing, testing and executing Chandrayaan-3. Hats off to them.

On a different note, the Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy's latest data on the involvement of women in the workforce states that 39 million women are employed, as opposed to 361 million men. This points to a gory fact: 9 out of 10 in the workforce are men.

Now is this a reality? When you board a Mumbai local train in the morning during the peak work time, is this what you see? Of the 4,500-odd people on a single train that literally spill onto the platform, do you see 9 out of 10 being men?

Actually, no. A recent study of ours across Mumbai and Delhi indicates that Mumbai trains carry as much as 44% women and Delhi trains 36%. But then local trains are not the only way people get to work. Many walk. Many take the bus. Look around. Is the proportion of working men versus women overstated in more ways than one?

The argument holds water. Big cities see more women in the workforce and smaller towns and villages see fewer. The national average evens out, highlighting that female labour force participation stands at just 24% in India.

And this includes farm labour. A sector whose precise audit is well-nigh impossible a task. And therefore, we conduct smaller studies and surveys, and extrapolate for the entire country. And there lies the primary fault.

The moot point to discuss then is women and work. Do women work less than men in India? When I put it in this crude and insensitive manner, the penny drops.

My mother, for one, has always been called a housewife. In today's lingo, we will refer to her as a "homemaker". And that she was. And is. As semantics give new respect to the status of a homemaker, the truth remains that my mother and yours work much more than many of us do today.

Raymond was wrong. There is nothing called "the complete man"(as their long-running advertising campaign over decades insisted). If there is a truth to meet, it is the concept of "the complete woman". A woman in India who handles home, works at home and in office, manages every relationship there is to manage, juggles the medical needs of the in-laws with as much panache as the schoolwork of the kids.

Now to leave the emotion aside, let me quickly take you through a journey of available data. The Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development, a collective effort of 37 democracies with market-based economies collaborating to develop policy standards to promote sustainable economic growth, has plenty of data to offer. Let me pick just one metric: Time spent doing housework across the world. The US numbers are a shock in itself. Men do housework for 82 minutes in a day. Women, 135.

Even in a country where men do more housework compared to their counterparts in other countries, the inequity is intact. Slovenia has men working 114 minutes, and the women work 212 minutes. Data from India is a super-shocker when it comes to housework. The Indian man works for a princely 19 minutes a day at home and the Indian woman works 298 minutes. When you work for as much as five hours a day at home, where will you get the time to work outside in the formal workforce, as assessed by data gatherers and their ilk?

The fault lies in our attitude to work as usual. We do not view all work as work. The work that women do at home is the most underestimated in the world. A work that does not get enough respect. Work which attracts no income. And thankfully, no income tax as well. Work which attracts nothing at all it seems. Not even eyeballs. And there lies the tragedy.

So, do men work less than women? The numbers at hand seem to say a lot. There are three kinds of people in India. Men who work in the workplace, women who work at home, and women who work in the workplace and at home as well. Data on the third category would suggest that these are really superwomen. They spend as much as eight hours at the workplace, two hours on travel and five hours at home. And that's a grand total of 15 hours, spent on work and commute. The answer seems to lie embedded in this data.

Add the farming sector in India to the debate. Those who live in villages will testify that agriculture, primarily micro-agriculture, is progressively getting all about women. Women toil in the field as much as men do, if not more. Women's unpaid work in agriculture and their tasks of gathering water and fuel for the house are contributions that go unassessed in almost all data formats. Women's unpaid work, if monetised, can contribute to as much as 40% of India's GDP.

The end point is a simple one. If the women in India did not do all the work they do at home, these services would need to be outsourced or bought. The value of these savings is the true, unassessed value of what a woman contributes to the home, the village, the city, society, and the country at large.

There is new respect in my head for sure. Shashikala, who handles my data analytics centre in Chennai, is a superwoman for me. She works 10 hours in the workplace everyday. I don't know how far she stays from the office. I sure do know she spends three hours on housework. Roopa, who heads my company's market research department in Bengaluru, puts in a mean 12 hours at the office for five days every week. Pankaja, who works on our AI initiatives, works four days from my Mumbai office and one day from home. I know she works for 10 hours at the office. I will stop there.

The point is hopefully made. I know we are far from the point when we can really say "Thank you for your service" to the women who work at home and the ones who work both at home and office, but I guess we will get there. Later than sooner.

DEFLATION, TROUBLING EXPORTS ADD TO CHINA'S ECONOMIC MALAISE

DR BISWAJIT DHAR

Former professor, Jawaharlal Nehru University and Vice President, Council for Social Development

Towards the end of 2022 and until the beginning of this year, market observers had predicted that the global economy would experience a slowdown in 2023. Forecasts of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) in January 2023 showed that global growth would be 2.9% against 3.4% in 2022. The growth projection for advanced economies was 1%, slowing down from 2.7% during the previous year, and 1.4% for the USA against 2% in 2022. In contrast, the second-largest economy, China, which had decided to discontinue its zero-Covid policy earlier in the year, was expected to grow at 5.5%. The country was to benefit from releasing "pent-up" demand after ending the draconian Covid-era restrictions.

Six months later, the global growth scenarios look very different. According to the IMF, advanced economies may grow faster, by 1.5%, while the US could expand by almost 2%.

On the other hand, China, beset with deflationary pressures, could register a sub-5% growth, and this can get worse if the Xi Jinping administration cannot quickly fix the many loose ends that have caused the economy to go into a tailspin. If China cannot address its malaise soon, the global economy could be in peril as, according to IMF estimates, China is likely to contribute almost 35% to global growth in 2023.

Since China had set out to capture the global economy under Deng Xiaoping's leadership, it had deftly used both the global markets and its domestic economy to ride the waves. It was the most successful among the East Asian economies in using trade to drive the economy. In less than three decades, in the early 1980s, China increased its share in global trade from below 1% to 10%; its share in global exports was even higher. No other country in recent history could leverage global demand to bolster its economy to the extent that China has done. From the late 1980s, while the Washington-based multilateral financial institutions were selling the virtues of using trade as an engine of growth, one of their strongest critics was proving them right.

But when the economic recession in 2008, triggered by the US subprime crisis, caused the worst global economic meltdown since the "Great Depression" of the 1930s, China quickly turned its attention to leveraging its domestic economy to maintain its growth momentum. Beijing launched a two-year, 4-trillion-yuan stimulus package in October 2008 to stimulate domestic demand, which could reduce its dependence on the global economy. In other words, the government sought to shield the Chinese economy from the impact of the global financial crisis. As a part of this package, local governments were directed to invest 2.2 trillion yuan, especially for building infrastructure. The local governments established the so-called local government financing vehicles (LGFVs), the local government-owned companies that fund and construct infrastructure projects and operate in the public sector.

ANI

> Coping with the deflationary pressures has become a struggle for China as its exports have steadily declined by 5% during the first seven months of 2023 on a year-on-year basis

In 2014, the National People's Congress allowed the local governments to issue bonds, but only for financing infrastructure projects. Local governments used this enabling measure to dip into the financial market, which they did well in the subsequent years.

However, the increased pace of borrowing led to rapid debt accumulation by the local governments that have assumed catastrophic proportions in the aftermath of the pandemic. A major contributory factor in the debt build-up was the steep decline in the revenues of local governments resulting from major tax cuts implemented in response to the economic stagnation caused by Beijing's zero-Covid policy.

According to China's finance ministry, local governments had 35 trillion yuan in outstanding on-the-books debt at the end of 2022, including regular and special-purpose bonds for infrastructure projects. After adding the debt accumulated by the LGFVs, the total debt was nearly 100 trillion yuan or almost 80% of China's nominal gross domestic product.

This implies that China's strategy to reflate from the 2008 economic recession by using the spending power of the local governments is no longer an option, at least for the near future.

Coping with the deflationary pressures has become a struggle for China as its exports have steadily declined by 5% during the first seven months of 2023 on a year-on-year basis.

China's exports to its most significant destination, the US, have declined by nearly 19%, while its exports to the EU member states and India have declined by 9% and over 2%, respectively. China's exports to the ASEAN region, its largest market since its emergence as an export powerhouse, have declined by 2%. Like in the case of reflating the domestic economy using local government spending, which is not an option in the months ahead, prospects of using the global economy to resolve its present economic malaise do not look promising for China.

This is because of the fact that during the first seven months of 2023, all major economies have experienced sluggishness in global trade. Total trade of the second largest trading nation, the US, has consistently been in the negative territory since March, with its average import growth on a year-on-year basis being close to 9%. It does not look encouraging for an economy whose growth is fuelled by imports.

Other major economies, including India and the European Union, have also been experiencing headwinds, which do not augur well for the global growth prospects in 2023.

Thus, although the IMF and several other commentators have predicted better global growth prospects for the current year, China's economic woes indicated otherwise.

'Oppn parties have come together to save Republic'

State-specific alliance will be formed to deny BJP the advantage of vote split in 2024 general election, says CPM general secretary Sitaram Yechury

THE INDIA bloc will focus on state-specific tie-ups among allies in order to deny the BJP the advantage of vote split in the 2024 general election. The opposition parties have come together to preserve the character of the Republic of India, CPM general secretary Sitaram Yechury tells Parvez Sultan. Excerpts:

The next meeting of INDIA is due on August 31. There are reports about appointment of a convener of the coalition, setting up a secretariat and also drafting a common minimum programme. What do you think is the road ahead for the alliance?
The alliance is generating confidence among people. There are issues on which all opposition parties are together. These include the basic things such as preserving the character of our republic – we have a secular democratic republic. The rights guaranteed by the Constitution have to be protected. That is our basic objective. The common minimum programme normally comes only after the government is formed. It is never drafted before the election. But, surely, there are some common issues that we will take to the people during our campaign. The secretariat or the other way of coordination will be discussed in Mumbai. It is not necessary to have a secretariat, convener or anything. We will discuss how to go about the coordination among alliance partners.

You have been talking about state-specific seat-sharing for the Lok Sabha elections. Please elaborate...
The idea of seat-sharing is to minimise the advantage the BJP gets by the division in opposition votes. In Kerala, we are in a direct fight with the Congress. The BJP doesn't get a single MLA elected there, forget about an MP. So the Left and the Congress fighting against each other does not give any advantage to the BJP, which is completely out of the picture. In West Bengal, the Left, Congress and the other secular forces fighting against the BJP and TMC (Trinamool Congress) weakens the BJP. Suppose, all of us get together against the BJP in West Bengal, all the anti-incumbency advantage goes to the BJP. A triangular fight in West Bengal will minimise the BJP advantage. So we will have to look at all the states differently.

Verbatim

There are deep divisions between some of the alliance partners. Do you think all the parties will be able to work together?
I think the people will keep us together. It is the people's pressure that has brought us all together. The Emergency was defeated because of the support of the people. The Vajpayee government was defeated for the same reason. Same will happen to this government. And it will be very difficult for any opposition party to betray the wishes of the people.

The CPM strength in Parliament has come down significantly. What was the reason for the decline and what are you doing to shore up the numbers?
Reasons are plenty. There was a huge gang up – from right to left -- against us. But this is one factor. There are also some lapses on our part. The result is that our electoral support has significantly declined. But at the same time, our ability to set an agenda before the country has actually strengthened... the setting of agenda through popular struggles. The only issue on which PM Modi had to back off was the farmers' struggle against the three bills. The bills were withdrawn... the only thing he (PM) is forced to withdraw was through the struggles. The pace of privatisation of the public sector units is getting retarded only because of the struggle of the working class through our movement. So the role of the Left is setting the national agenda through popular struggles. But electorally, what you are saying is right. That has to be corrected and we are working on it.

You recently visited Manipur. How have things come to such a pass that one section is demanding a separate state?
The situation is terrible. I have never seen things like this in my life anywhere in the country. Virtually, it is two countries in one state. We went to both areas — the Meitei and Kuki sides. If you have to go into the Kuki area from the Meitei side, no Meitei is allowed with you. We had to leave behind our own party secretary, a Meitei, when we visited the Kuki areas. The same thing happens when you enter the Meitei area. There are two separated regions. It is virtually a war-like situation. When you cross over from one side to the other, there are three levels of barricading, manned by locals, not by security forces.

> The rights guaranteed by the Constitution have to be protected. That is our basic objective. The common minimum programme normally comes only after the government is formed
> Sitaram Yechury
> General secretary CPM

There is a sort of dehumanisation of people and society happening in the state. The 'double-engine sarkar' (the government led by the BJP both at the Centre and in the state) has a big role in creating this ethnic conflict. It supported Kuki militant groups in the elections. They (Kuki) themselves have come on record saying they had a deal with the Assam chief minister and the northeast BJP in-charge. Kuki militants have claimed that N Biren Singh has become chief minister of Manipur because of their support to the BJP.

Out of 10 Kuki MLAs, seven are from BJP and two are ministers. However, the chief minister says all Kukis are illegal immigrants from Myanmar. The home minister repeated it in the Lok Sabha. So, the Kukis are now saying you seek support from us to win elections and then call us illegal migrants and narco-terrorists.

Now, the Nagas have also entered the scene. They say that this violence is happening on the land of Nagas. The Naga accord has a lot to do with land in Manipur. If the fire is not doused, things can go beyond their (government) control. Mizoram is also affected. If the government is not able to quickly handle the issue, it will spill over to the entire northeast.

The conditions in relief camps are appalling -- be it food or sanitation. Children are being born there with no immunisation programme and no nutritious food.

What are the immediate steps the government should for a permanent solution to the problem?
There are 60,000 Central security personnel there, but they don't have directions about what needs to be done. Had the government given clear directions, much of the violence could have been contained. The government should send an all-party delegation under the leadership of the home minister to meet every section of the people of Manipur, listen to their grievances and try to work out a solution as per their wishes. We have been saying this since day one. I have been part of such a delegation thrice to Kashmir with Shivraj Patil, P Chidambaram and Rajnath Singh. On all three occasions, we tried to move towards some solutions. Why are they (the government) not doing the same now?

Act against pvt colleges not paying PG students: Medicos

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

THE medicos and medical associations have asked the National Medical Commission (NMC) to take action against private medical colleges who are not paying to the PG students' salary on time.

The demand came up after a recent NMC survey showed that of the over 7,000 PG students, over 2,000 were not receiving stipends. Most of them are studying inprivate medical colleges. However, it's not only the non-payment of stipend, the issue is also a disparity in the amount given to those working in government hospitals compared toprivate medical colleges.

In a letter to the NMC Chairman, RTI Activist Dr K V Babu he sought his intervention in the matter, which has also been raised by the medical fraternity for the past few years.

His letter came after the Postgraduate Medical Education Board of NMC asked the private medical colleges to ensure students receive the stipend.

The NMC warned these self-financed/private medical colleges that strict action would be taken against them for non-compliance with the provisions of the PG Medical Education Regulations (PGMER), 2000, if any complaint is received in future. However, medicos said that just "warning" is not enough. The time has come to take "action."

DISPARITY
It's not only the non-payment of stipend, the issue is also a disparity in the amount given to those working in government hospitals compared toprivate medical colleges.

Kannur-based ophthalmologist Dr Babu said, "The NHRC in its direction of March 2023 have clearly instructed the NMC to deregister the private medical colleges who are refusing to clear the arrears of interns from 1st July 2021."

"Applying the same yardstick, the PGMEB should have directed the self-financing medical colleges of all 19 states and two UTs to clear the arrears of PG medical students / their batches and submit the report to the PGMEB considering the report based on the survey," added Dr Babu.

Dr. Aviral Mathur, President of the Federation of Resident Doctors' Association (FORDA) said, "The time has come for the NMC to start penalising such private medical hospitals that defy the order. Just a directive is not enough."

The stipend for PG students varies from one state medical hospital to another. It ranges from ₹45,000 to ₹95,000. However, private medical hospitals pay PG students even less than ₹25,000 and some pay them in instalments.

Mathur said though many states have reviewed the stipend paid to PG students who work round the clock, other states are still paying the old amount.

Dr RishiRaj Sinha, National Executive of FAIMA Doctors Association (FAIMA), said they will take up this issue nationally. "We will soon be having a meeting on this with our core committee. We will be getting in touch with all the RDAs in the country," he said.

The NMC took up the survey in April this year on the directions of the NHRC. An Analysis of 7,901 responses was received from PG students from 213 colleges and 19 states and two UTs. IT found that 2,110 students of private medical colleges were not receiving stipends.

Only Centre can conduct caste survey: Govt

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

THE Modi government on Monday told the Supreme Court that the subject of census is covered in the Union List under Entry 69 in the Seventh Schedule. A batch of pleas has challenged the Patna HC verdict upholding the Bihar government's decision to conduct a caste-based survey for the determination of backward communities.

Filing its response, the Centre termed census a "statutory process" and said that section 3 of the Census Act, 1948 only empowers it and no other body to conduct this exercise.

The Centre expressed its commitment to take all affirmative action for the uplift of SCs/ STs/ SEBCs and OBCs in accordance with the Constitution, It said, "The Act empowers only the Centre to conduct the census under section 3 of the Census Act, 1948."

The way was paved by a bench of Chief Justice K Vinod Chandran and Justice Partha Sarthy in its 101-page verdict delivered on August 1, 2023. It remarked that caste has been found to be an important indicator of understanding backwardness. Lifting the stay, the court had held that state's contention cannot be brushed aside that "the purpose of the survey is to identify backward classes, SCs and STs with the aim to uplift them and also ensure the provision of equal opportunities to them."

Challenging the HC decision, the plea said that only the Union government is empowered to conduct the Census. "It is submitted that the notification dated June 6, 2022, is against the Constitutional mandate of distribution of powers between the state and the Union legislature," it said.

The court termed the state government's decision to conduct the survey as perfectly validated with due competence and opined that the state was competent to conduct the same as affirmative action as per Article 16 of the Constitution.

It also remarked that there was no element of coercion in the entire exercise. The process of caste-based survey started in Bihar on January 7, 2023. The responsibility of conducting this survey in Bihar has been entrusted to the General Administration Department of the government.

Article 35A snatched rights of non-residents in J&K, says SC

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

INTRODUCTION of Article 35A of the Constitution, which empowered the J&K legislature to define permanent residents, resulted in taking away fundamental rights of non-residents, the Supreme Court remarked on Monday as it continued hearing a challenge to abrogation of Article 370.

Stressing the three fundamental rights of employment, settlement in the state and acquiring immovable property which non-residents were denuded of, CJI Dhananjaya Y Chandrachud also said that Article 35A also took away the power of judicial review.

"See the 1954 order. It applied entirety of Part III (fundamental rights) and so Article 16, 19 applied to J&K. Now, you bring in Article 35A which creates an exception under 3 areas: Employment under state govt, acquisition of immovable properties, and settlement in the state. Though Part III is applicable, when you introduce A 35A, you take away 3 fundamental rights- Article 16(1), right to acquire immovable property which was then a fundamental right under 19(1)(f), Article 31, & settlement in the state which was a fundamental right under 19(1)(e)," the bench said.

Solicitor General Tushar Mehta, appearing for the Centre, said there is enough material to show that the Constitution of Jammu and Kashmir is subordinate to the Constitution of India and the constituent assembly of Jammu and Kashmir was in reality a legislative assembly making laws.

Army to buy 130 tethered drones for long-distance surveillance, intel inputs

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

IN continuation with its steps to strengthen intelligence and surveillance systems along the Line of Actual Control, the Indian Army on Monday signed a contract with local manufacturers for the supply of tethered drone systems and tank driving simulators.

The Indian Army in X (twitter) message confirmed the signing of a contract for the procurement of 130 tethered drones and 19 tank driving simulators. "The induction of the new equipment will enhance the overall operational preparedness of the Army," said the force.

Sources said the contract for the drone system for long-distance surveillance and intelligence gathering along the borders was signed with indigenous company Newspace Research Technologies Private Ltd. The contract for the other equipment was signed with Zen Technologies Limited, which will also involve skill development.

The Request for Technical and Commercial Proposals for the drones was issued by the armoured branch of the Integrated Headquarters of the Ministry of Defence in January this year, under the fast-track procedure.

As per the RFI, these systems are sought to fly not less than six hours in tethered mode and around 45 minutes in un-tethered mode.

These drones are connected to a ground-based tethered system with a flexible wire or cable for power and communications and can provide surveillance of beyond-line-of-sight targets for a prolonged period. The Fast Track Procedure, as per the Defence Acquisition Procedure, involves "cases where expeditious procurement for urgent operational requirements foreseen as imminent or for situations in which a crisis emerges without a prior warning, or where undue/unforeseen delay due to reasons beyond the control of the acquisition setup, are seen to be impacting the capacity of the Forces, may be recommended by Service Headquarters for pursuance of FTP."

Tethered drone systems are ideal for extended surveillance, security overwatch missions such as border control. Traditional drones have a greater range allowing them to perform missions the sensor cannot capture from a distance.

TALE OF TWO POLL-BOUND STATES: MP to witness BJP's top leaders in yatra mode from Sept 3 while Raj yatras won't project anyone as CM

BJP makes Chouhan a part of 'collective' for 5 yatras

'Yet to decide on CM face'

On Monday, BJP's MP Election Management Committee convener and union minister Narendra Singh Tomar was bombarded by journalists with questions about who will be CM's face in coming polls, Shivraj Singh Chouhan or anyone else. Tomar said, "Some issues have to be decided by me, some by the party chief, while it's the parliamentary board which takes a call. But until then, it won't be appropriate for me to reply."

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

THE ruling BJP will take out five Jan Ashirvad Yatras across assembly poll-bound Madhya Pradesh from September 3 to tell the voters the government's achievements and expose the "scams" of previous Congress governments in the state.

The yatra has been a seminal part of BJP's warming-up exercise for assembly poll battles in MP since 2008. But months before every assembly poll (2008, 2013, 2018), the yatra in the past has been led by the chief minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan – who is BJP's longest-serving CM anywhere in the country.

In a departure from the past, the BJP announced on Monday, not just one, but five yatras from separate parts of the state, between September 3 and September 6.

Instead of the MP CM leading one single yatra across the state, this time, all prominent BJP leaders in the state, including Union ministers Narendra Singh Tomar, Jyotiraditya Scindia and others, besides other senior leaders, including national general secretary Kailash Vijayvargiya and state party chief VD Sharma will be part of the yatras.

"The BJP believes in collective leadership and is above individualism. All prominent leaders, including our present CM Shivraj Singh Chouhan will be part of the yatras. He (CM) will be in the yatra for half a day daily. We're aiming to cover 210 out of the 230 assembly seats covering 10,640-plus km. We'll be covering a distance of 92 days in just 18 days," said Union minister and BJP's MP Assembly Election Committee convener Narendra Singh Tomar.

The five yatras will be started by three prominent national BJP leaders. While Union home minister Amit Shah will start the Yatras from Hindu pilgrim town Chitrakoot in Vindhya region and Mandla district of Mahakoshal region starting on September 3 and September 5 respectively, defence minister Rajnath Singh is likely to launch the yatras from Khandwa and Neemuch districts respectively in Malwa-Nimar region on September 4, while the fifth Yatra will be started from Sheopur in Gwalior-Chambal region by party's national president JP Nadda on September 6.

Strategic change

What is different is the yatra is the lack of emphasis on any one leader. Instead, the party has entrusted leaders with distinct responsibilities, a strategy departure from the previous approaches

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

IT's now evident in BJP circles as well as outside that Vasundhara Raje does not matter for the party as much as the victory in Rajasthan – a maneuvering that aims to fix internal factionalism and simultaneously strike at the main adversary in a surgical manner.

Starting on September 2, the party will kick off four Parivartan Yatras from four major religious sites across Rajasthan. The BJP has tasted success twice via political journeying, with Raje leading the saffron charge. However, this time neither Raje nor any other leader will lead such yatras in the state.

What distinguishes this particular yatra is the lack of emphasis on any singular leader. Instead, the party has entrusted leaders with distinct responsibilities for this campaign. The BJP refrained from selecting a prominent figurehead to lead the yatra, a strategy departure from previous approaches.

The inaugural leg of this journey will begin from the Trinetra Ganesh temple in Ranthambore (Sawaimadhopur). It will be led by BJP chief JP Nadda flagging off the event. Covering a span of 18 days, the yatra will traverse 47 assembly constituencies, encompassing regions including Malpura, Tonk, Niwai, Khandar, Bayana, Vair, Nadbai, Lalsot, Chaksu, Bassi, Jamwaramgarh, Viratnagar, Shahpura, Amer, Kaman, and Deoli within the Sawaimadhopur, Jaipur, and Bharatpur areas. This ambitious journey is expected to cover approximately 1,847 km.

As the competition for the CM's chair remains fierce among contenders like former CM Vasundhara Raje, Union minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat, state party chief CP Joshi, leader of the Opposition Rajendra Rathod, and others, it appears that a party decision on this is unlikely to be made before the assembly polls.

Should the BJP secure power, the final decision on the CM will be made by the top leadership. Arun Chaturvedi, the coordinator of the yatra, said that this time, the campaign does not revolve around an individual leader. Instead, the faces of the yatra are the BJP party and PM Modi himself. He emphasised that this journey is not representative of any individual's agenda but is a collective voyage representing the general public

14-yr-old dies by suicide after being beaten by school teachers

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

A 14-year old girl, who had consumed pesticide allegedly after being beaten and humiliated by teachers in school for bunking classes on August 22, died here on Monday during treatment in a private hospital.

Angered by the incident, her family members staged dharna at Ratu Police station along with the dead body and blocked NH-39 at Kathitand demanding arresting of the four accused persons in the case.

The deceased Sakshi Kumari was a student at Krishi High School in Gadri Guddu under the Ratu police station in Ranchi. According to the girl's class mates, Sakhsi Kumari along with two other girls was thrashed brutally for bunking the classes.

Row over language: Tribal students call shutdown in Tripura

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

SOME 300 protesters were briefly detained by the police in Tripura on Monday during a 12-hour shutdown called by Twipra Students' Federation (TSF). They were demanding the introduction of Roman script for the tribal Kokborok language and the passage of the Constitution 125th (Amendment) Bill.

The TSF members held protest demonstrations in several parts of the state in support of the two demands. There was no report of any untoward incident, the police said.

In the past two years, TSF and Tipra Motha Party staged a series of protests to mount pressure on the government to address the two issues.

Currently, the Bengali script is largely used for Kokborok language. The demand for Roman script gathered pace following reports that students were compelled to write answers for the Kokborok subject in the Bengali script in the CBSE board examination.

The Constitution 125th (Amendment) Bill's passage will further empower 10 tribal autonomous councils in the Northeast, including one in Tripura.

TSF president Samrat Debbarma said they had earlier petitioned Governor Satyadeo Narain Arya and Chief Minister Manik Saha seeking fulfilment of the two demands but no concrete steps were taken.

He said as the government remained silent, they were compelled to call for the shutdown.

He warned that the TSF would intensify the agitation if the government continued to remain indifferent.

After more suicides, ban on Kota exam for next 2 months

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

A day after two more students died by suicide at the exam prep factory of Kota in Rajasthan, the administration imposed a ban on all exams for the next two months. Both were asked to take a test on Sunday despite clear instructions from Kota Collector O P Bunkar barring coaching centres from holding any exam on Sundays.

The total count of student suicides in Kota has now risen to 24 this year. Kota is the national the hub of coaching for India's engineering and medical entrance exams.

While one of the boys hailed from Bihar, the other one was a minor from Maharashtra.

Adarsh had come to Kota from Bihar to prepare for the NEET exam. He lived with his sister and another student in the same accommodation. Sources said his performance was subpar in Sunday's test, which apparently led to heightened stress.

Meanwhile, Bhawani Singh Detha, principal secretary (higher and technical education), chairman of a committee formed to look into the issue, held an online meeting with representatives of coaching institutes.

Tejashwi summoned in defamation case over Gujarati 'thug' remark

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

TEJASHWI Yadav, the deputy chief minister of Bihar, was summoned on Monday by a metropolitan court in Ahmedabad in a criminal defamation case brought against him for stating that "only Gujaratis can be thugs (fraudsters)". The court also ordered Tejashwi to appear before the Additional Metropolitan Magistrate court on September 22.

On Monday, the court of Additional Metropolitan Magistrate summoned the Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) leader in a criminal defamation complaint brought against him under sections 499 and 500 of the Indian Penal Code. The court issued him the summons on the basis of a complaint filed by one Haresh Mehta, a social worker and businessman from Ahmedabad.

The court had conducted an inquiry against Yadav under section 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC) and had found sufficient grounds to summon him on the basis of a complaint filed by Haresh Mehta," P.R. Patel, counsel for the complainant, told the media.

"Since filing the complaint, the testimony of 15 people has been recorded in court, and everyone has said that Gujaratis have been called thugs, so their feelings have been hurt, and all of them have been defamed,"

"So we demanded from the court that there are 364 castes in Gujarat, and from his personal platform he has called all of them thugs, so we demanded from the court that strict action should be taken against him," he added. Mehta (63) had filed his complaint in court where Yadav had said, "Only Gujaratis can be thugs in the present situation, and their fraud (crime) will be forgiven. Who would be responsible if they abscond after they are offered the money belonging to the LIC and bank?" Yadav had said.

Gyanvapi row: Muslim side opposes transfer of cases to CJ-led HC bench

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

A division bench of Allahabad High Court, headed by Chief Justice Pritinker Diwaker, on Monday adjourned the hearing of a bunch of petitions challenging the maintainability of the title suit seeking restoration of temple in place of Gyanvapi mosque till September 12.

The hearing in the matter had been already concluded by the bench of Justice Prakash Padia on July 23, and had reserved the order to be delivered on Monday.

Earlier, the cases related to Kashi Vishwanath-Gyanvapi mosque title suit were transferred to a different bench, headed by CJ Diwaker on August 25, just a month after the single judge bench of Justice Padia concluded the hearing and had reserved the order to be delivered on August 28.

In fact, Justice Padia had been hearing the matter since August 2021.

On Monday, Anjuman Intezamia Masajid (AIM), for the mosque management committee, objected to the transfer of the cases to the bench of CJ a month after the conclusion of the hearing in the matter.

"The hearing in the matter was completed. The order was reserved and it had to be delivered today (Monday)," said the AIM lawyer and underlined Amar Singh Vs State of UP, where a full bench of the High Court had ruled that a matter partly heard by a bench had to be heard by that very bench itself.

On the contrary, the opposite side's (Hindu side) lawyer, Advocate Puneet Gupta said that it was the prerogative of the CJ to withdraw the case from a bench, where even after exhaustive arguments, the judgement was not delivered.

He said it was the settled law that the CJ was the master of roaster and that he could decide which bench would hear what matters.

However, the CJ Diwaker said he will decide after the AIM submissions.

The matter pending in the court includes a challenge to maintainability of a suit filed before a Varanasi Court, seeking restoration of a temple at the site where the Gyanvapi mosque exists.

The application was filed in a suit filed by the Ancient Idol Of Swayambhu Lord Vishweshwar And 5 Others in the year 1991 claiming the restoration of the land on which the Gyanvapi Mosque stands to Hindus. The Plaintiffs, in the suit, sought a declaration that the land on which the Mosque is built on the ruins of the Kashi Vishwanath temple. The suit has been challenged before the HC.

Maha drought: Worried Shinde seeks action report

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

AFTER Maharashtra reported over 20 per cent deficit in live water storage in reservoirs on August 23, chief minister Eknath Shinde has asked the administration to undertake measures to mitigate the drought and submit a detailed plan as well.

As per state agriculture departments, 89 per cent sowing and plantation in Kharif season has been reported this year against 122.8 per cent sowing that was reported last year. In Maharashtra, local administration has started supplying 351 drinking water tankers to 329 villages, and 1,273 hamlets.

"There are six districts in Maharashtra that have received more than 100 per cent rainfall this year while 13 districts have received 75 per cent to 100 per cent rainfall, About 15 districts got 50 per cent to 75 per cent rainfall and 13 other districts received 25 per cent to 50 per cent rainfall in state," reads the the agriculture department report.

Shinde asked the agriculture and revenue department to prepare the drought mitigations plan — identifying the drought prone areas and issues of these areas.

Besides, he also asked to check the places drinking water tankers should be provided and fodder camp for animals has to also begin. The micro and meticulous planning has to be carried out to mitigate the drought.

As per state Water resource department, there is over 20 per cent deficit in live water storage in reservoirs in all major dams. This is year, there is. 70.57 per cent live water storage in all major dams of the state against 90.56 per cent.

Marathwada region has reported the highest deficit in live water storage that is 48 per cent. Jayakwadi is one of the biggest dam in Marathwada that is reported 65 per cent live water storage deficit. In this dam, this year only 33 per cent live water storage has been reported against 98 per cent storage last year.

Interestingly, Konkan, including Mumbai region is the only region that has surplus live water storage in its reservoirs. This year, in Konkan, the total live water storage in reservoirs is 92 per cent against 90 per cent last year. The dams that supply drinking water to Mumbai also have sufficient water in its live storage.

These dams include Bhatsa — 90 per cent live water storage against 97 per cent last year. While in Tansa dam, there is 99 per cent water storage against 98 per cent live water storage last year. The Modak Sagar has also got 99 per cent live water storage this year and same number remained last year in the reservoir during this period.

KYIV SAYS IT CAPTURED KEY VILLAGE, EYES BREAKTHROUGH

Russia intensifies pressure on frontlines in Ukraine's northeast

KYIV

UKRAINE announced Monday it had recaptured a village on the southern frontline where its forces are hoping for a breakthrough in their grinding offensive against entrenched Russian positions.

Kyiv launched its pushback in June after stockpiling Western-supplied weapons, building up assault battalions and attacking Russian positions.

But officials in Kyiv have acknowledged that progress has been slow and Moscow says Ukrainian forces are running out of resources.

"Robotyne has been liberated. Our forces are advancing southeast of Robotyne and south of Mala Tokmachka," Deputy Defence Minister Ganna Malyar said on television.

Both settlements are in the southern region of Zaporizhzhia, one of four that the Kremlin claimed to have annexed last year despite not having control over any of them.

Ukraine's limited advances on the southern front have spurred a political debate in Western capitals over political and military support for Kyiv.

Compared to previous offensives in the Kherson and Kharkiv regions, Ukrainian forces are crashing into Russian defensive lines of trenches and minefields that are kilometres deep. But experts say that the capture of Robotyne is evidence Ukrainian forces can puncture Russian lines as they move towards the Black Sea.

The US-based Institute for the Study of War said Russia had "committed a considerable amount of materiel, effort, and manpower to hold the series of defensive positions that Ukrainian forces are currently penetrating".

Apart from clawing back several hamlets in the south, Ukrainian forces have pressured the flanks of Bakhmut, a war-scarred eastern town captured by Russia in May.

Malyar said on Monday that Ukrainian troops were advancing south of Bakhmut and that they had recaptured one square kilometre there over the last week of fighting. She also acknowledged a Russian push to take back territory in the northeast of Ukraine, describing fighting in the Kharkiv as "very intense" over the past week.

Ukrainian officials have estimated that Russia has committed around 1,00,000 additional troops to frontlines in the northeast to pressure defensive lines. AFP

BELARUS TOLD TO EXPEL WAGNER FIGHTERS

Poland and Baltic nations on Monday asked Belarus to expel the Russian mercenary group Wagner, whose fighters are sheltering there after a failed rebellion against Moscow. "We have asked the regime (of Belarusian President Alexander) Lukashenko to immediately expel the Wagner group from Belarus," Polish Interior Minister Mariusz Kaminski said after meeting his counterparts from Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. Poland says thousands of Wagner fighters are stationed in Belarus, which borders Russia, Ukraine and Poland. Lukashenko recently said he would keep some 10,000 Wagner troops in the country

HC's verdict today on Imran Khan's plea against conviction

ISLAMABAD

A Pakistan high court said on Monday that it would announce on Tuesday its reserved verdict on former prime minister Imran Khan's plea seeking the suspension of his three-year jail term given by a sessions court in the Toshakhana corruption case.

A divisional bench of Islamabad High Court (IHC) judges, comprising Chief Justice Amer Farooq and Justice Tariq Mehmood Jahangiri, reserved the verdict after hearing both parties' counsels.

The bench later stated that the reserved judgment would be announced at 11.00 a.m. on Tuesday. Earlier in the day, the IHC resumed hearing of appeal which it began hearing on August 22. It had adjourned the case on Friday after the lawyer representing the Election Commission of Pakistan (ECP) did not appear due to illness.

Khan's lawyer Latif Khosa completed his argument on Thursday, asserting that the verdict was given in haste and full of shortcomings. He urged the court to set aside the sentence but the defence team demanded more time to complete its arguments.

Many believe that a favourable ruling for 70-year-old Khan may come after the Supreme Court highlighted faults in the judgment convicting Khan.

Imran Khan

Meanwhile, the Balochistan High Court (BHC) on Monday dismissed a first information report (FIR) filed against Khan for making comments against state institutions and their officers during a speech.

A two-member bench comprising BHC Chief Justice Naeem Akhtar Afghan and Justice Gul Hasan Tareen announced the verdict on the petition filed by the Insaf Lawyers Forum's (ILF) Iqbal Shah, Geo News reported.

The high court also dismissed the arrest warrants against Khan issued by the judicial magistrate.

"Alhamdulillah, the court has dismissed the FIR registered against Imran Khan in Bijli Road police station in Quetta, once again Imran Khan has been vindicated in a false case, congratulations to all Pakistan on the victory of justice," Khan's counsel Naeem Haider Panjutha wrote on X.

During Monday's hearing in IHC, the Election Commission of Pakistan's (ECP) counsel Amjad Pervaiz urged the IHC to issue a notice to the state to make it a respondent in the case as, he said, the law made it necessary. PTI

Protests erupt in Libya over contact with Israel

TRIPOLI

LIBYA'S internationally recognised prime minister has suspended his top diplomat after she met her Israeli counterpart, with news of the encounter triggering demonstrations in a country that does not recognise Israel.

Oil-rich Libya, which plunged into chaos after dictator Moamer Kadhafi was toppled and killed in 2011, has been divided since 2014 between the UN-supported government of Prime Minister Abdelhamid Dbeibah in Tripoli and a rival administration based in the country's east. Angry protesters took to the streets of the capital and other western cities on Sunday night, blocking roads with burning tyres and waving Palestinian flags, after it emerged that Najla al-Mangoush had met with her Israeli counterpart in Rome last week.

Mangoush was "provisionally suspended and subject to an administrative investigation", Dbeibah's government said, hours after Israeli Foreign Minister Eli Cohen said the "unprecedented" meeting had taken place. On Monday, Libya's Internal Security Agency (ISA) said Mangoush had not been authorised to leave the North African country after reports on social media that she had flown to Turkey overnight as the protests flared. Internet users had posted the tracking details from the FlightRadar website of a flight said to be carrying Mangoush from Mitiga airport in Tripoli to Istanbul. "Surveillance cameras will prove this" is false, the ISA said in a statement. Mangoush "is on the travel ban list until she submits to the investigation", said the security agency. Turkey's Anadolu news agency, citing security sources, said Mangoush had already left for Istanbul following the diplomatic furore.

There was no official confirmation of the flight from Ankara or Tripoli, however. AFP

ASIA MATTERS

2 PLEAD GUILTY FOR SMUGGLING SONAR SYSTEM

Two Singaporeans of Chinese origin have admitted to their involvement in the sale of a sonar device that was then smuggled into Myanmar, and set up a surveillance center for the Southeast Asian nation's navy. Poiter Agus Kentjana, a 57-year-old sales manager at Hydronav Services with an Indonesian name, and Wui Ong Chuan, one of the firm's directors, on Friday pleaded guilty to one count of cheating and one charge under the Strategic Goods (Control) Act. The sentencing for the two men and the company is expected to take place in September

SHAVING GIRLS' HAIR OVER HIJAB CODE

A school on Indonesia's main island has partially shaved the heads of more than a dozen girls, its headmaster said on Monday, after they were accused of wearing their Islamic hijab headscarves incorrectly. Activists say Muslim and non-Muslim girls have been forced for years to wear a hijab in conservative parts of the nation of 270 million people, which moved in 2021 to ban schools from such mandatory dress codes. An unidentified teacher at state-owned junior high school SMPN 1 in the Lamongan partially shaved the hair of 14 Muslim girls last Wednesday

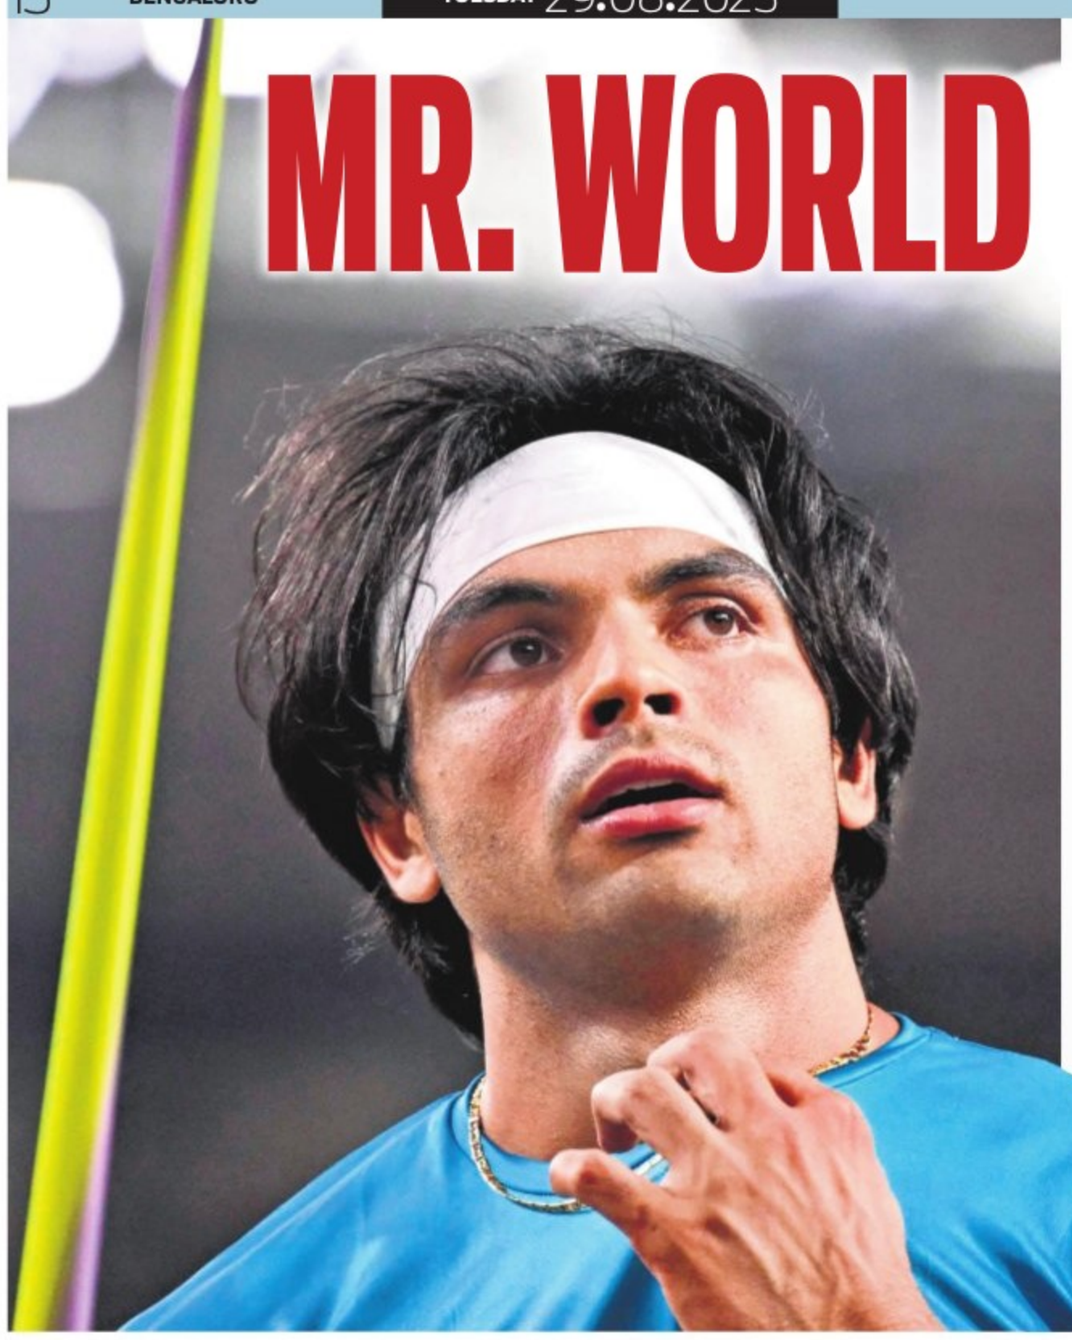
Even after the second throw I was trying to push myself because I was expecting a better throw. But you all know that there is so much pressure there is some shortcoming in technique or speed — Neeraj on pushing himself after 88.17m throw in the final

I was happy that Arshad had a good throw. When we met he was happy that both countries are growing in javelin. People usually create pressure calling it India vs Pakistan but if I can handle that pressure then competing in other competitions will be easier. I think there will be more pressure at the Asian Games because of the India vs Pakistan rivalry that fans have created. — Neeraj on Pakistan's Nadeem



MR. WORLD

Gold medallist speaks about keeping injury free, India-Pak rivalry & more

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

Olympic and world champions are the rarest breeds in the country. One athlete, who has made this his own, and with poise, is Neeraj Chopra. The newly-crowned world champ Neeraj did get a bit of stage fright in the first throw of the World Championships final on Sunday but came back in the second to get that 88.17m to edge past Pakistan's Arshad Nadeem to gold. In the process, the two created another India-Pakistan rivalry that is bound to stay for a while. It may be something delectable for the fans, but for the players, it's pressure. Though Neeraj is trying not to think about it too much yet, somehow feels it is there to stay and such pressure could help him dodge more intense competitions in the future. But for now, Neeraj hopes to take it easy, stay healthy and injury-free.

Despite starting well, this season was disrupted a bit due to injury and he would want to stay injury free and perform well. Neeraj started his training early and travelled from England, South Africa, Turkey to Switzerland and Germany for training. "For this year the world championships has been the biggest competition," he said. "The plan was different in the beginning of the season. I wanted to compete at different competitions but as you all know that I have missed three competitions in between because of the groin strain that I had. Even now I have to be cautious. I did not want to get injured here (in Budapest) and that thing was in the back of my mind. Though the plan was different, even this worked for me. We trained in Switzerland and then in Germany before that in Turkey. Most of the competitions are held in Europe so we can save a lot of time in traveling and can restart the training after the competitions."

India vs Pak rivalry

On one hand if Neeraj has both the Olympics and the world title, Arshad has thrown above 90m. The Pakistan thrower missed most of the season this year due to elbow injury and worlds was his first major competition. The way things are panning out, the Asian Games could be the big stage where India-Pakistan rivalry will be reignited. Even Neeraj is aware of that. "A new India and Pakistan rivalry," he said during a late night interaction with the media from Budapest. "I don't use mobile before competitions but I just checked for a brief while and saw India vs Pakistan. But if you look at the sport, the European athletes are very dangerous and at any moment they can throw big. Not just Arshad (Nadeem) even Yakub (Vadlejch) and Weber are good throwers. We have to think about every thrower until the last throw. Yes India vs Pakistan is always riveting there. It's good but when you are at a global stage, our focus is on other athletes also. This will be good because we have the Asian Games."

On how other athletes motivate him, he said it's about the competitive spirit. "When you are out of competition you have to feel good but when you are in the competition you have to focus on yourself. Even today I thought I would throw well and until the last throw I believed I could throw well. But I was a little cautious because of the injury that I had and keeping that in mind I had to push myself (because of the competition on the ground). Since I have won gold I am really very happy. I am really happy for Kishore Jena did his personal best and even DP Manu threw well. It is a great achievement for India that both of them finished in the top six. What seemed exceptional is that in such a big competition they have performed well."

Olympic or Worlds medal?

Two feelings are different. The Olympics had a very special feeling. The World championships in its own right is a very big title. Worlds are always tougher than the Olympics because all are top athletes and they come well prepared. Good thing about today was that not just I won but there were two Indians who had done well. I was talking to Adill (Sumariwalla) sir (AFI president) about preparing a Mondo track in India. It's really good that new athletes have come and are doing well. This has given us new hope. We will do well at the next Olympics. Sometimes athletes have great preparation but something eludes them.

It is very disheartening for the athletes but I was telling them that they should not think too much about it but find where they have erred and that should not happen again. We have to take these in their strides. Really very good the way AFI, TOPS and others are supporting the athletes. We are going to do well.

On his motivation from now

In our game we have throws and there is a saying that throwers don't have a finishing line. No matter how many medals you win you can keep pushing yourselves for the next best throw. There are a lot of athletes who have won a lot of medals but you have to keep pushing yourselves. Hope to shine more.

Let Neeraj enjoy the sport... When you enjoy, you can excel: Coach Klaus

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

THE words Klaus Bartonietz utters are usually laced with positivity and hope. There is deep philosophy too. He sounds monk-like and seems almost oblivious to the pressure of expectations on one of the biggest stars in India at the moment — Neeraj Chopra. Or this calmness comes as a boon to him and his ward. A day after Neeraj won the World Championships gold in Budapest, he sounded relaxed and satisfied. Amid all the hype and hoopla he felt it would be good for Neeraj to enjoy the sport.

The German bio-mechanic expert dissected the season quite meticulously and says 90m is still there. But he believes Neeraj should not be put under too much pressure and talk only about medals. He feels if Neeraj enjoys the sport he will reach the 'moon' (alluding to Chandrayaan-3 landing). The coach gets deeply philosophical while describing how easy (or difficult) it is to motivate Neeraj, who has won almost everything that the sport can offer. "It is not difficult to motivate him. He is already motivated. I mean it is his life. How to motivate him to live?," said the coach.

On the Worlds performance? "In the qualification, execution was very good. One throw bang-bang 88.77m," he told this daily from Budapest. "You have a day's gap and the pressure increases. Then the first throw was around 79m, he was not too happy and he came back in the second throw. The reason is that the season was very good until Doha (Diamond League) but after Doha, he got a groin injury.

That changed the training. A lot of physio work has to be done. There was not so much throwing, lifting was okay but not throwing." The coach threw some light on the workout regimen after the injury especially after Doha where he threw 88.67m a trifle short of what he did at the Worlds qualification and 90m was on the radar. "As I said, there was more physiotherapeutic training, visiting the doctors getting advice, physical training but not so much throwing because of the specific load stress on that area," he said. "We were doing the best (technical adaptation)... He has thrown in the high 80s and in the qualification here that was technically very good."

The coach also explained what the athlete and the team do during the gap between the qualification and the final. "One has to keep the system active and keep the brain going. So we had a short session that day in the afternoon on the track. Some sprints, jumps very, very fast, a bit of lifting. Mentally, not talking too much about this to avoid giving additional pressure. What do you do? Because if you have to perform well physically, it's also about good mental work. You should not put too much pressure. You won the Asian Games, the Olympics, World Championships. Now let him also enjoy the sport. When you enjoy then you can excel," said Klaus. He said that the Athletic Federation of India, Sports Authority of India and private sectors and Army supporting the sport is helping throwers to pursue the sport. As of now, the coach is focussed on the Asian Games and maybe the Diamond League in Eugene (will be decided later). But after the Asian Games, there will be a short break before assembling in India to train for Olympics.

CRICKET SPECIAL: AJMAL SPEAKS

'Pak Asia Cup favourites, have edge over India in WC if they bat first'

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

HE made his international debut for Pakistan during the 2008 Asia Cup against arch-rivals India in Karachi. Saeed Ajmal, the former right-arm off-break bowler, soon became an integral part of the team helping it to lift their only T20 World Cup next year by emerging as the joint second leading wicket-taker. He also featured in the 2011 ODI World Cup wherein Pakistan lost to the hosts India in the semifinal with Ajmal first dismissing batting maestro Sachin Tendulkar leg before only to see the decision being overturned by the third umpire. He eventually got Tendulkar but by then the damage was already done.

With the Asia Cup and ODI World Cup in the horizon, Ajmal spoke to this daily sharing his thoughts on that 'famous' dismissal of Tendulkar, India-Pakistan clashes and teams that can win the two prestigious tournaments. Excerpts...

On debut in Asia Cup

I still remember it was hot in Karachi when I made my international debut against India during the Asia Cup. I probably bowled the last over as well (he bowled 47th over). I always did well in the continental tournament winning it once in 2012. These clashes (Asia Cup) not only give an opportunity for fans to cheer for their respective teams but also provide a chance for players to perform against each other, make friends.

On winning it in 2012

We defended 236 against hosts Bangladesh in the final. They were doing good and the total was not going to be enough. Tamim Iqbal gave them a brisk start and at one stage we were staring at a one-sided loss. Bangladesh, however, apparently got overconfident and overexcited. Mashrafe Mortaza was guiding them home but then he attempted to play a paddle sweep against me in the 48th over losing his wicket. We won the match in the last three overs. Bangladesh are always formidable in their backyard with spinners playing the key role. Their supporters can make life difficult for any team. But their overconfidence meant they lost the match from the winning position. We held our nerves. Our pacer Aizaz Cheema bowled the last over defending nine runs.

On playing in India

Playing cricket in India is a different experience altogether. I have played in the 2011 World Cup and then the bilateral series including two T20Is and three ODIs. World Cup semifinal was the most memorable moment, especially Sachin's wicket. The LBW decision was overturned but I still believe he was out. Even the on-field umpire Ian Gould agrees with me to date. I played a lot of County cricket and whenever I met Gould, I always discussed that dismissal. I eventually got him (Sachin) but by then he had scored 85. I still don't understand how the hawk-eye showed the ball was missing the stumps. I was even abused by the crowd after dismissing Sachin. That means nothing in comparison to experience of playing in India. That dismissal of Yuvraj Singh by Wahab Riaz off the first ball, I remember there was a pin drop silence.

On India-Pak in Asia Cup

The wickets in Kandy are good. It offers assistance to both pacers and spinners. It's easy to bowl in the afternoon as, by evening, the ball starts skidding and comes on nicely on the bat. The toss will be important. If Pakistan win the toss, then they probably will bowl first.

On WC clash of arch-rivals

After a long time, Pakistan will be visiting India. Pakistan are No 1 side in the ODI and this happened because of their top order batter and pacers. This is not the team which can be beaten easily. They have two good all-rounders in Mohammad Nawaz and Shadab Khan. If they score 250-260, it will be difficult to beat them because their pacers — Shaheen Shah Afridi, Naseem Shah Haris Rauf — and have claimed the most wickets in the last three-four years. The batters do struggle against spinners and if a spinning track is prepared then it can pose difficulties for Pakistan. Home crowd can be an advantage as more than 1 lakh fans will be rooting for you at the world's biggest stadium in Ahmedabad. But if Pakistan bat first then they will have an edge over the hosts.

Asia Cup & WC favourites?

Pakistan are favourite to win the Asia Cup as they have played a few matches in Sri Lanka of late. We have an edge as far as fast bowling is concerned. Shaheen and Naseem are known to claim wickets with the new ball while Rauf is good at death. Jasprit Bumrah's return has boosted India's confidence and they bat deep with Ravindra Jadeja at No. 7. They have good all-rounders in Hardik Pandya, Jadeja and Axar Patel. Middle-order is a worry for Pakistan and if they can manage it, they along with India, Australia and England can reach the World Cup semifinals.

To set up battery giga factory, green hydrogen facility, large-scale power generation via solar & wind power

RIL charts ambitious new energy path

SACHIN KUMAR @ Mumbai

MUKESH AMBANI, Chairman and managing director of Reliance Industries Ltd (RIL), on Monday announced the company's ambitious new energy business plans, which include setting up of a battery giga factory, a green hydrogen production facility and large-scale power generation through solar and wind power.

"We are accelerating our journey to achieve Net Carbon Zero by 2035 through use of renewables and bio-energy for a sustainable and green business. We are well on our way to build the New Energy ecosystem of manufacturing solar, wind, batteries, hydrogen, and bio-energy platforms," Ambani said.

"This will enable us to speed up development of our renewable generation assets to deliver round-the-clock electricity for our captive requirements as well as to meet the growing needs of Indian consumers," he added.

The group plans to set up a battery Giga factory by 2026 and it targets 100 (Giga Watt) renewable energy capacity by 2030.

"It will manufacture battery chemicals, cells and packs, leading all the way up to containerised energy storage solutions, and will include a battery recycling facility to deliver a truly integrated ecosystem," said Mukesh Ambani.

He said RIL is progressing well to deploy the committed capital of ₹75,000 crore to build its new energy manufacturing ecosystem which will enable the group to accelerate giga-scale production for round-the-clock power and for large-scale Green Hydrogen production for green chemicals manufacturing, as well as for green mobility.

RIL will set up a fully-integrated, automated, giga-scale electrolyser manufacturing facility. This will enable it to establish large-scale Green Hydrogen production at Jamnagar, gradually transition our captive requirements, and simultaneously integrate with Green Ammonia and Green Methanol production for domestic and international markets.

He said that the group has made a significant progress in wind power. Its foray into manufacturing carbon fibre at large scale provides the company with a unique advantage to further integrate and reduce cost of wind turbines.

The company will be partnering with the world's leading technology players in wind equipment manufacturing to deliver most cost-efficient solutions.

The company aims to establish 100 compressed biogas (CBG) plants in the next five years. These CBG plants would likely consume 5.5 million tonnes of agro-residue and organic waste. The company said that this will help mitigate nearly 2 million tonnes of carbon emissions and also produce 2.5 million tonnes of organic manure annually.

"This would result in a reduction of about 0.7 MMTPA of imported LNG," Ambani said at the company's AGM.

Reliance Retail to attract more global investors: Ambani

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Mumbai

RELIANCE RETAIL VENTURE LTD (RRVL), the retail arm of Reliance Industries Ltd (RIL), may attract more funds from global investors.

Mukesh Ambani, chairman and managing director of RIL told sharehoders on Monday that several big global strategic and financial investors have shown strong interest in Reliance Retail. Announcing plans about Jio Financial Services (JFS), he said that the recently demerged financial services arm will foray into insurance sector.

"Several marquee global strategic and financial investors have shown strong interest in Reliance Retail. I will update you about our progress with them in due course," Mukesh Ambani said at the annual general meeting of RIL.

He said that if it were listed on stock exchanges based on current valuation, the retail venture would be among the top four listed entities.

Referring to the recent acquisition of around 1 per cent stake by Qatar Investment Authority in RRVL, by investing ₹8,278 crore ($1 billion) at a valuation of $100 billion, Mukesh Ambani said its valuation has doubled in less than three years.

"Just for context, during our fund-raise in September 2020, the valuation of our Retail business stood at ₹4.28 lakh crore. In less than three years, the valuation of Retail has almost doubled, notwithstanding the intervening Covid-19 pandemic. Based on this valuation, Reliance Retail, had it been listed, would have ranked among the top four companies in India and top ten retailers globally," he said.

> In Sept 2020, the valuation of our Retail business stood at ₹4.28 lakh crore. In less than 3 years, valuation of Retail has almost doubled, despite the intervening Covid-19
> Mukesh Ambani, Chairman, RIL

The company had raised funds from Silver Lake, KKR, Mubadala, Abu Dhabi Investment Authority, GIC, TPG, General Atlantic and Saudi Arabia's Public Investment Fund at a valuation of around $57 billion at that time. RRVL, is aggressively expanding its business here by acquiring companies and getting franchise rights of leading international brands for the Indian market.

JFS has been capitalised with a net worth of ₹1.2 lakh crore to create one of the world's highest capitalised financial services platforms at inception.

US-based Baron Capital slashes Byju's valuation

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Bengaluru

US-based asset management company Baron Capital has slashed edtech firm Byju's valuation. In its June quarter report, it slashed the fair value of the company, valuing the company at about $13 billion. Byju's was last valued at $22 billion.

Think & Learn Private Limited, the parent entity of Byju's, detracted during the quarter. In its report, Baron Capital said, "Weak performance was driven by a marked slowdown in business momentum as COVID-related tailwinds that benefited online/digital education have begun to dissipate. In addition, Byju's announced that Deloitte had resigned as its auditor and will be replaced by BDO (another top five global audit firm)."

Three investor-appointed Board Directors resigned during the quarter. These developments were deemed as adverse events that required the fair market value of our holdings to be adjusted down accordingly, it said. It also said they are disappointed with recent developments but it continues to believe that Byju's remains a dominant franchise and can sustain low to mid-20s earnings growth in coming years.

It made an investment in Think & Learn in second quarter of 2021. Byju's has been facing many challenges and earlier in June, the Netherlands based Prosus had marked down the firm's valuation to $5.1 billion. Prosus, one of the largest investors in the edtech firm, said the leadership at Byju's "regularly disregarded advice and recommendations relating to strategic, operational, legal, and corporate governance matters."

Govt not to postpone curbs on laptop imports

RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

THE government on Monday said it will not postpone the proposed restrictions on import of laptops, personal computers and tablets.

The restrictions, which include mandatory licence requirements for bulk imports of these items, will kick in from 1 November 2023.

Major manufacturers had in a meeting with Rajeev Chandrashekhar, the Minister of State for the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY), had requested for an extension in the transition period by 6-12 months.

Alkesh Kumar Sharma, the secretary of the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY), said the government is pleased with the response received for the PLI scheme for large electronics. Therefore, there is no need to give more transition time to these companies to start manufacturing in India.

"So far, we have received 58 registrations for the scheme, encompassing entities both large and small, and representing both Indian and foreign interests. As the deadline to apply for the scheme is August 30,2023, we expect more registrations," said Alkesh Kumar Sharma.

On August 4, the government made a sudden announcement imposing import restrictions on personal computers, laptops, and tablets. However, after a lot of hue and cry, the government decided to postpone the implementation of the restrictions till 1 November.

In their meeting with Rajeev Chandrasekhar, major laptop manufacturers including Dell, Acer, Samsung, Panasonic, Apple, Lenovo, and HP, had raised several concerns including the decision and the process of obtaining licences.

Restrictions to kick in from November 1

Therefore, there is no need to give more transition time to these companies to start manufacturing in India. Restrictions on import of certain electronics items will kick in from November 1, 2023

Funding galore in spacetech start-ups; $62 mn infused this year

UMA KANNAN @ Bengaluru

FROM just $35 million funds raised between 2010 and 2019, the Indian spacetech sector has already attracted $62 million in funding so far this year, which is a 60% increase as compared to the same period last year.

According to recent insights by Tracxn, India ranks seventh in terms of funding within the international spacetech landscape for the year.

In 2020, the sector secured $28 million in funding and it was $96 million in 2021. In 2022, the sector witnessed an impressive $112 million funding. As per experts, after the launch of Chandrayaan-3 mission, venture capital funding and the number of start-ups in this space might increase in the coming years.

"The success of Chandrayaan-3 is sparking a significant rush of interest among both VCs and start-ups in the space sector. VCs are known for seeking high-potential opportunities and will likely view the space sector as a burgeoning field with substantial growth potential. This will increase funding for these start-ups as investors recognise the viability of innovative projects and solutions related to satellite technology, space research, and interplanetary exploration," Somdutta Singh, founder & CEO, Assiduus Global Inc, LP Investor in several marquee funds, said.

Awais Ahmed, CEO, Pixxel had told this newspaper that ever since the Indian government introduced new space reform initiatives, their support in enabling private companies to address the gaps has only grown further.

Pixxel has so far raised $97.10 million in funding, followed by Skyroot at $72.3 million and AgniKul has raised $34.8 million.

Tracxn said in its report that among the thriving business models within the sector, small payload-based launch vehicles have garnered significant attention, securing $75.6 million in funding over the last two years. Satellite-based Imaging Solutions have also witnessed substantial support, with $84.2 million in funding secured over the past two years.

As per reports, there are at least 140 registered spacetech start-ups in the country. Singh added that over the past few years, funding in Indian space tech start-ups has experienced significant growth.

JKC gets one more month to pay lenders of Jet Airways

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IN a positive development for Jalan-Kalrock Consortium (JKC), the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) on Monday extended the time till September 30 for them to pay a sum of ₹350 crore to the lenders of bankrupt Jet Airways.

A three-member NCLAT bench accepted the plea of the consortium to extend the timeline and also for adjustment of ₹150 crore from performance bank guarantee (PBG) towards payment of ₹350 crore.

The consortium has submitted an undertaking before the appellate tribunal, in which it had committed to pay ₹100 crore by August 31, 2023, and another ₹100 crore by September 30, 2023. For rest ₹150 crore, the consortium had requested the appellate tribunal to encash the PBG submitted for that purpose.

JKC had emerged as the winning bidder for the airline, which stopped flying in April 2019 and later underwent an insolvency resolution process. The ownership transfer of the airline is yet to take place amid continuing differences between lenders and consortiums.

On July 10, the committee of creditors of Jet Airways had told the Supreme Court that the Jalan-Kalrock resolution plan approved by the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT) is not working and called for the liquidation of the grounded airline.

This came after the NCLAT on May 26 granted the JKC a 97 days extension to pay a guarantee of ₹150 core to the State Bank of India (SBI).

Govt to review auto industry PLI scheme

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Ministry of Heavy Industry (MHI), chaired by Union minister Mahendra Nath Pandey, on Tuesday, will review the production linked incentives (PLI) scheme for the auto industry.

The conference, according to the government, aims to bring together stakeholders – PLI-Auto applicants, PMA, Test Agencies etc -- to review the performance of the scheme and address all concerns and challenges.

In the automotive sector, the Ministry has launched various flagship programs, one of which is the PLI scheme for Automobile & Auto Components (outlay of ₹25,938 crore).

The cascading effect of these schemes will lead to the growth of the automotive industry and it is poised that the Indian automotive industry will rank number three in the world by 2030, MHI said in a press statement.

The ministry considers the PLI-Auto applicants as one of the crucial stakeholders of the scheme. As per MHI, the goal of deep localization and development of Advanced Automotive Technology (AAT) Products within the country cannot be achieved without the support and growth of the industry. "Central government takes moral responsibility to reinforce this important industry by providing financial support as well as a conducive environment to nurture innovation and technology," MHI said in a statement.

UPS to hire 1,000 in Chennai technology centre

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

US logistics major UPS has opened a technological centre spreading over 51,000 sq.ft. in Chennai on Monday, inline with the company's ambitions to grow in the domestic logistics market.

Speaking to this newspaper, Bala Subramanian, Executive Vice President and Chief Digital officer at UPS, said the company will function as a key technology centre that will manage logistics operational technology and will develop IT solutions for its global operations in sync with two other global IT centers of the company in Europe and in the US.

It is not an outsourcing model but a global development model, focusing on improving efficiency, he added.

Dr Subramani Ramakrishan, Vice president for UPS Technology Centres and heading India operations said despite the availability of IT talent, they find a talent gap for people with logistics domain expertise. UPS plans to collaborate with state agencies and academic institutions to develop curriculum to bridge the gap. Subramanian said they would hire at least 30% women.

The company plans to hire 400 people by the end of the year and hire 1000 people in three years. The company also has announced its decision to invest up to 20 million US dollar within 2025, which includes real-estate, hiring and creating digital infrastructures.

Sriperumbudur near the city, located at the Chennai - Bengaluru national highways is developing as a logistics hub with port and road connectivity. The corridor is thriving with automobile and electronic manufacturing clusters and logistics and warehousing spaces.

The Union government has proposed to develop a multimodal logistics park (MMLP) at Mappedu near Chennai. This newspaper learnt that these have tipped UPS's decision towards Tamil Nadu. However the company didn't reveal any details regarding this. Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M K Stalin inaugurated the premises.

VARICOSE VEINS

WHEN BLOOD FLOW LOSES DIRECTION

BY KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @New Delhi

GEETHA*, who used to stand for long hours while taking classes as a teacher, started having severe leg pain, especially in the afternoon, soon accompanied by noticeable swelling in the legs. Slightly obese, Geetha, 45, from Kochi, soon realised that she could not perform any household chores on her return from school, apart from recurring cramps in the legs at night and change in colour of her legs. She was later diagnosed with varicose veins, which affects thousands of women in India. While globally, about 30%-40% of the population is affected by varicose veins, its prevalence in India is 16%–20%, said Dr Sudarshan G T, Senior Consultant, Minimally Invasive Cardiac and Robotic Cardiac Surgeon, Fortis Hospital, Bengaluru.

"Varicose veins are considered a chronic condition, but are not life-threatening or limb-threatening and should not be taken lightly," he added. However, if left untreated, varicose veins can lead to more significant vein-related issues, such as an elevated risk of blood clots, skin ulcers and swelling. In some rare cases, ulcers can turn cancerous.

Similar was the case of Renu, a homemaker in Delhi. Fond of cooking, she often hosted lavish parties, until one day, she started feeling achy and heavy in her legs. It was followed by burning, throbbing, muscle cramps and swelling in the lower legs, followed by pain, which worsened while standing for a long time. Soon, the veins turned dark purple. She could hardly stand to cook for her family now. According to Dr Riju Menon, Department of General Surgery, Amrita Hospital, Kochi, varicose veins result from malfunctioning valves in the veins. "This dilation occurs due to the weakening of vein walls and malfunctioning valves. This causes blood to accumulate within the veins, leading to twisted, enlarged veins known as varicose veins," he said.

In the body, veins play a crucial role in returning blood from the body's periphery to the heart. Valves aid this process to withstand gravitational pull. When these valves are compromised or weakened, blood can flow backwards, leading to blood pooling in areas like the feet and legs, resulting in pain, swelling and eventually leg ulceration.

It affects people, mostly women, whose main occupations require standing or sitting for a long time. The other reasons are obesity and lack of physical activity, as well as age and genetics. Some experts point to women wearing tight clothes and high heels leading to varicose veins.

Dr Nitish Anchal, senior consultant, vascular and endovascular surgery, Indraprastha Apollo Hospital, Delhi, said that women are more prone to varicose veins due to physiological and hormonal factors. "Female hormones like estrogen can weaken vein walls and valves, leading to reduced vein elasticity and an increased likelihood of blood pooling. Additionally, pregnancy places significant pressure on pelvic veins, hindering blood flow and increasing the risk of vein enlargement. Hormonal changes during the menstrual cycle can exacerbate these issues," he said. Hormone treatments, such as contraceptive pills, can also increase the risk of varicose veins. Dr Devender Singh, Consultant Vascular & Endovascular Surgeon, Yashoda Hospitals, Hyderabad, said apart from the conservative treatment options, women should not wear restrictive clothing, take medical therapy, modification of cardiovascular risk factors, reduction of peripheral oedema, and weight loss. Lifestyle changes and regular physical activity can also help in preventing varicose veins.

Treatment and care

Dr Vinod Vij, consultant of plastic surgery, Apollo Hospitals, Navi Mumbai, says treatment for varicose veins depends on the severity and symptoms. "Lifestyle changes such as exercise, keeping legs elevated, avoiding prolonged periods of sitting or standing and wearing compression stockings can help alleviate discomfort and prevent worsening of the condition."

Though there isn't a complete cure for varicose veins, various treatments can help diminish their appearance and offer relief. The primary goal of treatment is to manage it effectively and halt its progression. Dr Singh said that 50% of the patients who had come to him had a history of the illness in their families. "Nearly 90% of children whose parents have the condition are at risk," he added.

Today, both Geetha and Renu have found much relief from the swollen and twisted blood vessels that bulge just under the skin's surface. Both of them were first asked to take breaks in between their chores and wear compression stockings throughout the day until bedtime. At night, they were asked to keep their legs elevated while lying down. After two months of diligently following the recommended measures, their condition improved. Geetha, on her doctor's advice, underwent an endovenous laser procedure, which brought her much relief, while Renu is diligently following her doctor's instructions by making lifestyle changes, reducing weight exercising and wearing compression stockings.

In advanced cases, medical procedures like endovenous laser treatment, radiofrequency ablation and sclerotherapy are commonly used to alleviate symptoms and improve appearance.

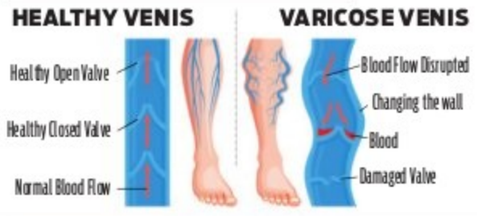
SIGNS AND SYMPTOMS

- Veins are dark purple or blue
- Veins appear twisted and bulging
- An achy or heavy feeling in the legs
- Burning, throbbing, muscle cramping and swelling in the lower legs
- Pain worsens after sitting or standing for prolonged periods
- Itching around one or more veins
- Changes in skin color around a varicose vein

VENOUS DISEASE ON LEGS



RISK FACTORS

Age - Aging causes wear and tear on the valves in the veins that help control blood flow

Sex - Women are more likely to develop the condition. Hormonal changes before a menstrual period or during pregnancy or menopause might be a factor because female hormones tend to relax vein walls. Hormone treatments, such as birth control pills, might increase the risk of varicose veins

Pregnancy - During pregnancy, the blood volume in the body increases to support the growing baby, but can also enlarge veins in the legs

Family history - If other family members had varicose veins, there's a greater chance you will too

Obesity - Being overweight puts added pressure on veins, Standing or sitting for long periods - Movement helps blood flow

CAUSES

Weak or damaged valves can lead to varicose veins. Tiny valves in the veins open as blood flows toward the heart, then close to stop blood from flowing backward. If these valves are weak or damaged, blood can flow backward and pool in the veins, causing the veins to stretch or twist.

TREATMENT

Self-care — Exercise, raising the legs when sitting or lying down or wearing compression stockings can help ease the pain of varicose veins and might prevent them from getting worse

Sclerotherapy— The varicose veins are injected with a solution or foam that scars and closes those veins. In a few weeks, treated varicose veins should fade

High litigation and vein stripping – The procedure involves tying off of a vein and removing a segment of vein through small cuts. This is usually an outpatient procedure and full recovery takes 1-2 weeks

Laser treatment — Strong bursts of light are sent onto the vein, which makes the vein slowly fade and disappear. No cuts or needles are used

Catheter-based procedures — This procedure is the preferred treatment for larger varicose veins. A thin tube (catheter) is inserted into an enlarged vein and the tip is heated using radiofrequency or laser energy. As the catheter is removed, the heat destroys the vein by causing it to collapse and seal shut

Ambulatory phlebectomy — Small varicose veins are removed through a series of tiny skin punctures

XPLAINER

Give the elderly an extra dose for protection

ANNA JOSE @Kochi

India has been witnessing a spike in the number of flu cases during monsoon and winter every year. Though flu does not cause death or severe health issues directly, the seasonal disease can be severe in the elderly population and people with comorbidities. According to the Indian Council of Medical Research (ICMR), seasonal influenza is an acute respiratory infection caused by influenza viruses that circulate in all parts of the world.

WHO and ICMR have recommended vaccination of high-risk groups with seasonal influenza vaccine. It is an important tool to prevent infection and severe outcomes caused by influenza viruses. The administration of flu vaccine, which is already available, can help prevent hospitalisation and reduce the risk of deaths caused by influenza. In India, the ministry of health and family welfare suggests the trivalent inactivated influenza vaccine. According to health experts, the vaccine is designed to protect against four different flu viruses - two influenza A viruses and two influenza B viruses.

"The administration of flu shots should be mandatory for the elderly population. Flu shots do not prevent the occurrence of influenza. However, the severity of the disease and risk of death can be reduced," said Dr Anitha Thilakan, associate professor at the Government Medical College, Thrissur, and vice-president of the Indian Medical Association (IMA) Kochi. Dr Sunny Orethel, former president of IMA, Kochi, said that flu shot shots should be mandatorily given to people above 65 years.

The Ironwoman

Despite several counselling her against doing the Ironman Copenhagen, an extreme endurance sport, Nirupa Shankar, joint MD of Brigade Group, decided to 'be a little mad' and take the challenge head-on

DESE GOWDA

WHEN the annual Ironman Copenhagen kicked off in the last week of August, city-based entrepreneur Nirupa Shankar was the only Indian woman participant at the arduous triathlon. Consisting of a 3.8 kilometre swim, a 180 kilometre cycle ride, and a full marathon distance of 42.2 kilometres, the Ironman is one of the most extreme endurance sports that challenges the physical and mental fortitude. Yet in her very first attempt, Shankar managed to finish the gruelling event within 14 hours, 47 minutes and 41 seconds, at an impressive average pace of seven minutes 56 seconds per kilometre.

For Shankar, who currently serves as the joint managing director of Brigade Group, the finish line brought immense relief rather than a sense of triumph. "At the end, when I finally reached the finish line, relief washed over me. I was just happy to be done. I had my husband and sister there, and their support felt good," she adds.

As a mother of two, Shankar took up running nearly five years ago after her first child. She had promised to 'gift' herself the ability to do a full Ironman by the time she was 40. Soon, she was part of a joggers' club and was introduced to endurance races. "I did a sprint distance, which is a quarter of the distance of a full Ironman. After that I had my second child and took a break. But in the last few years, I picked it up again and started doing incremental endurance races – first a double sprint, then a half Ironman just last year," she remembers.

But despite her previous experiences, Shankar was racked with a lot of self-doubt about her ability to finish the event. "I would actually get teary-eyed at the possibility of doing the event. The maximum time I had done in an endurance event prior to the event was around eight hours, and I didn't know whether I would be able to endure nearly twice as much time. And you cannot practise for such long distances either. So many things could go wrong – what if I get a cramp, or my bike gets a puncture or I fall off the bike? There were definitely a lot of jitters before the event," says Shankar, adding that once she started, however, the rush of adrenaline took over, helping her focus on the race.

As a full-time entrepreneur, Shankar didn't have the luxury of training for the event like professional athletes. Instead, she had to make time for a rigorous training regimen amidst her work schedule. "Compared to most others, I was little underprepared, because I had done just a few months of training, putting not more than 14 hours per week into training. Most people who do Ironman triathlons train for years," she adds.

As such, Shankar's goal at the gruelling-yet-prestigious event wasn't to compete against other athletes. Rather, it was to prove to herself what she could do. "In Europe, people start cycling and swimming from a very young age. I only started to cycle a few years ago, so my confidence on the bike was nowhere near what they had. Only around 10-15 per cent of the participants were women, and the whole event was intimidating. I'm a decent runner, but during the swimming and cycling phases, people are very aggressive, almost swimming over me and overtaking me. I would just let them pass and do it at my own pace. I wasn't competing against anybody, rather I was pushing myself to give the best I could," she adds.

With one Ironman finish under her belt, Shankar hopes to set her eyes on improving her performance in the future. "Now that I know that I can do the distance, I want to improve my performance – getting faster and stronger. I can't do too many events because of my workload, but I'll pick an event every year and work towards that," she signs off.

URBAN FABRIC

MONIKA MONALISA

IT'S Onam today and the kasavu saree and sadhya are synonymous with this festival. Since it's a working Onam for many, fashionistas are sharing modern-yet-practical style hacks for the occasion. Teaming white co-ord sets with jewellery to get a last-minute festive look or a dress made of the kasavu saree fabric are some go-to options for Bengalureans.

This is exactly what Shilpa Mishra did. "It's a working festival. I don't own a kasavu saree and there is a huge celebration at the office where the staff has put pookalam. I really wanted to dress for the occasion. So I teamed an off-white kurta and skirt with some of my oxidised jewellery," says Mishra, a sales professional.

The co-ords are top picks for those looking for modern festive wear. Throwing in some traditional jewellery does the trick. Pooja Monga, founder of a clothing brand, offers a vast collection of such co-ords. "People look forward to timepieces in their wardrobe which they can style up or down depending on their preferences. These co-ords act as elegant canvases that can be accessorised for the occasion," says Monga about the co-ord sets that range between ₹5,000 and ₹9,000.

The other way of keeping up with the festive mood is going for a dress made of the kasavu saree fabric. Like Babita Jaishankar, an image counsellor, has done. "For Onam, it is about keeping the fabric the same, it doesn't necessarily have to be in the form of a saree. I am a huge follower of sustainable fashion so I usually restyle my kasavu sarees. I also suggest repurposing anything available in your wardrobe. I created a dress and have used every patch of available fabric," says Jaishankar, adding that there are many online boutiques that make various designs.

There might be various styles coming in, but the kasavu saree can never go out of fashion. If you already own one, you can shun the traditional style of draping and style it differently. Fashion blogger Shalini Parupudi suggests many fun drapes, "You go for a pre-pleated saree look. All you need is a saree and a lehenga skirt. Start by making pleats in your pallu and pin it onto your left shoulder. Tuck at the end of your pleats under your blouse and start pleating the rest of your saree from right to left. You can also wear a matching or contrasting lehenga which will look equally good and can be store-bought."

If you still haven't got your outfit ready for Onam, here are some modern yet practical styles that you can opt for this festive season

The love has transcended languages and regions. Even as Shivanna is being flooded with diverse offers from the Southern film domain, the latest buzz reveals that a Hindi cinema debut might just be around the corner.

Tatsama Tadbhava trailer creates huge curiosity

CE FEATURES

Team Tatsama Tatbhava

MEGHANA Raj Sarja's comeback film, Tatsama Tadbhava, is creating the right buzz with its trailer, which was released on Monday. The trailer launch event was graced by Dhruva Sarja and Daali Dhananjay. The trailer hints at a captivating web of secrets, lies, and mystery.

Tatsama Tadbhava, penned and helmed by debutant Vishal Atreya, is spearheaded by producers Pannaga Bharana, Spurthi Anil, and Chethan Nanjundaiah.

Meghana Raj, who had taken a hiatus from acting, attributes her renewed interest to respect the memory of her late husband, Chiranjeevi Sarja. "Pannaga Bharana, along with Prajwal managed to convince me to make a return," shared the actor, expressing gratitude towards her supportive families.

"I embraced a role that was distinct from any I've undertaken before in this film, and I found it immensely gratifying," mentions Prajwal Devaraj, who plays a pivotal role in the film. He also disclosed that his father Devaraj lent his voice to the trailer.

Produced under the banner of KRG Studios, Tatsama Tadbhava is scheduled to hit the screens on September 15.

Adding to the film's allure is its music, composed by director Vasuki Vaibhav, and its visual appeal, overseen by cinematographer Srinivas Ramayya.

Behind the making of Sapta Sagaradaache Yello

CE FEATURES

There is no doubt that Hemanth M Rao's Sapta Sagaradaache Yello is creating all the right noises before its release on September 1. The little glimpses of the film thus far have stirred excitement, and the director, along with the entire team, has effectively built up anticipation for this romantic drama centred around the characters Manu and Priya, portrayed by Rakshit Shetty and Rukmini Vasanth in Side A. Side B introduces Chaithra Achar as a pivotal part of the principal cast. Delving behind the scenes of Sapta... we talk to the technicians — cinematographer Advaitha Gurumurthy, music director Charan Raj, editor Sunil Bharadwaj, and art director Ullas Hydoor — who have contributed to its creation.

I believe that the cinematographer is the first audience: Advaitha Gurumurthy

Advaitha Gurumurthy has tried to bring a distinct approach to Sapta Sagaradaache Yello. In his recent interaction at the trailer launch event, the cinematographer spoke about delving into the emotional moments of the film along with director Hemanth. "The script had a poetic essence ot it. With such exceptional actors personifying the roles, there was a natural inclination to capture their beauty. But we knew the content had to be on the forefront, and it wasn't just about presenting the beauty but also showcasing something previously unseen within the frame." he explains.

Advaitha continues, "As we blocked scenes during rehearsals, the actors would consistently elevate their performances during the final takes. Even after watching the film 16 times, I'm still moved to tears. Working on this project for over two-and-a-half years exclusively has forged a deep connection. As the cinematographer, I am the first audience. When I view the footage while it is captured, it's an emotionally charged moment. If the intense sequences engaged me, the comic ones left me in splits," says the DoP.

Emphasising that the film is authentic, Advaitha says they avoided elaborate sets, and captured Rakshit and Rukmini in their element. "The camera and the team were deeply immersed, almost becoming a part of their surroundings. We wanted the audience to feel as though they were right there beside the characters. This connection and the sense of accomplishment evoked emotions," he says.

The transformative journey of the actors was equally impactful for Advaitha. "Witnessing Rakshit transition into Manu was quite unsettling. By the time we reached Side B, Rakshit had transformed into a completely different individual. The same profound change was evident in Rukmini Vasanth and Chaitra Achar as well. Their performances were remarkably nuanced, and one of the reasons we chose an anamorphic lens to capture the right essence. This approach continued into part 2 but with a fresh structure and perspective."

Summarising his experiences working on the film, Advaitha says, "In Side A, I didn't just follow Manu; I became one with his world. However, in Side B, Manu's world was a different sphere altogether, leading to a transformation in the cinematographic approach. The compositions and lenses used were purposefully chosen, each reflecting the underlying philosophy of the two parts."

The emotional depth in Side A and B of Sapta... is effectively conveyed through the music's varying intensities: Charan Raj

Charan Raj began his musical journey with Hemanth M Rao's debut film, Godhi Banna Sadharana Mykattu. After pairing up in Kavaludaari once again, the successful partnership continues with Sapta... In addition to the background score, he has composed 12 tracks for both Side A and B. "Notably, two songs are shared between the sides, but with distinct treatment," Charan reveals, reflecting on his experience working with Hemanth. "Side A of Sapta... exudes a lighter tone, while Side B carries a slightly more intense mood, which is skillfully translated into the music."

Charan says, "The narrative of the romantic drama seamlessly weaves into its musical fabric. Achieving a harmonious balance, the film features various melodious and vibrant tracks." Despite the audience's usual anticipation of romantic melodies from Hemanth, the director has pushed for a fusion of romance and lively songs. "This eclectic blend even encompasses hints of hip-hop and sync wave influences, adding trippy yet melodic style, there has been an innovative approach to composing melodies, which is evident with each track," says Charan, adding, "Lyricists Dhananjay Ranjan and Nagarjuna Sharma, among others play a crucial role in this fresh wave of songwriting, aiming to break away from traditional song structures and craft narratives through music. The emotional depth is effectively conveyed through the music's varying intensities."

Charan Raj, who embarked on this journey alongside Hemanth, highlights the director's ongoing evolution. "Driven by a sincere passion for cinema, Hemanth consistently refines his approach with each project. This commitment extends to embracing growth and staying attuned to industry trends. Adapting to the evolving storytelling demands and unique scenarios posed by the director presents challenges that ultimately empower the team to transcend established norms," he explains.

With 12 songs successfully composed, Charan Raj is now engrossed in finalising the background score for Side B. "The songs in Sapta... serve a dual purpose, seamlessly guiding the narrative's progression. Some of these songs extend for 5 to 6 minutes, strategically dispersed throughout the film to maintain an engaging pace. We've consciously aimed to differentiate ourselves from other films, aspiring to forge a profound connection with the audience." he says.

In addition to Hemanth, Rakshit's unwavering support has proven invaluable, says Charan. "As an actor, and producer of Sapta..., Rakshit offered insightful feedback. He has also contributed as a songwriter for a track that will feature in Side B," says Charan.

Our goal was to help the audience immerse themselves and feel like an integral part of Manu and Priya's journey: Ullas Hydoor

Art director Ullas Hydoor, whose journey commenced with Rakshit Shetty's Avane Srimanarayana, has contributed to over 12 projects, with six of them already released. After crafting a fantasy realm for ASN, Ullas faced a unique challenge with Sapta Sagaradaache Yello – creating a world that's relatable, rooted in everyday life, and as authentic as possible. "The director aimed for a story that people could connect with. Instead of constructing a fantasy realm, we focused on the mundane aspects, things familiar to us. Our goal was to help the audience immerse themselves and feel like an integral part of Manu and Priya's journey. It was about crafting a space and environment that resonated with our own world, making it easier to bring to life since it mirrors the world we inhabit," explains Ullas.

Ullas added that while Side A posed fewer challenges for the art direction, Side B demanded substantial research and meticulous alignment with the script. "Side A is entirely set in 2010, a time untouched by the current pandemic and technological advancements. Our task was to recreate the atmosphere of that era, which, though not drastically different, required a delicate balance. We concentrated on locations and surroundings rooted in Bengaluru, along with portions shot in Shivamogga. The portions shot in Kundapura will feature prominently in Side B," says the art director.
